KLAN ISSUE MAY CALL AL SMITH BACK

Sentiment to Draft New York Governor Despite Refusal to Run Still Is Strong

PARTIES BUCK KU KLUX

Anti-Klan Groups of Empire State Will Urge Naming of Jew or Catholic

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1924 by the Post Pub. Co.
New York—Governor Al Smith's decision not to be a candidate for a third term may be final so far as his own determination is concerned but the sentiment to draft him for the office is still to be reckoned with not only because of his popularity but because the leaders themselves may have to turn to him again after they have sized up all the men now being mentioned for the place.

What is ultimately done about the New York governorship concerns the national campaign vitally. Al Smith showed an ability to carry the state under adverse conditions and now with the Klan issue becoming a dominant factor, the election of Smith to make the race in the end may be compelled by political circumstances. There is no man around whom the anti-Klan forces would rally more enthusiastically to squelch the Klan's ambitions than Al Smith.

TAMMANY WANTS SMITH
Tammany at heart wants Al Smith to make the race. Judge Olvany, who succeeded Charles F. Murphy as leader of Tammany Hall, plainly showed his regret when he announced after conferring with the New York governor that he did not desire to run again. He sincerely does not want to get back to private life and business. To the argument that he would help the Davis-Bryan ticket more by running for office again, his answer has been that he can help it more by stumping the eastern states for the national ticket.

It would not be surprising if the New York state Republican nominees for local reasons came out as strongly against the Klan as have the Democrats. Thus far President Coolidge has been strongly urged by leaders outside of the east to keep out of the whole thing and permit the local tickets to handle the situation as they please. But the Republicans who know the true inwardness of the political situation in the Empire state are not so sure that is sound policy.

WILL CHALLENGE KU KLUX
If Al Smith runs, he himself will be challenged to the Klan because he is a Catholic and one of the cardinal principles of the Klan is to oppose any Catholics, Jews or Negroes for public office of any kind. It would appear that even if the New York governor is not drafted the naming of a Catholic or of a Jew will be familiar to the anti-Klan groups of New York. State, who is being mentioned for the Democratic nomination, is a Jew. He comes from western New York where he is popular. Tammany has indicated that if Al Smith does not run it will not insist on a New Yorker and would not oppose an up-state candidate. On what New York state does with respect to the national campaign in this state will depend to no small extent.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE VOTES ON BUILDING FUND

Chicago—Members of the Chicago Board of Trade were to vote Friday on a proposal for a campaign for a new building fund. The proposal is that members make loans to the board by a sort of fee system on the basis of half a cent for each thousand and bushels of grain traded in. It approved, the plan probably would be continued for five years, at the end of which time the fund either would be used for a new building or returned to the lenders. The board owns its present site.

Prince Of Wales Has Many Handles But "Eddie" Seems To Be Favorite

WITH THE PRINCE OF WALES. Giving the Prince of Wales a call is a cinch.

He will answer to most anything from "Hey, Eddie!" down to "Your Highness."

The handle to his name is so long it is almost unwieldy. Except when he is at home and has to obey his royal pa and ma, the Prince refuses to carry it all.

That's the chief reason he is going to the polo games at Long Island as the Baron of Renfrew. It's the title that gives the least trouble.

To use it properly you need but address the Baron as "My Lord." Of course, if you want to trick it up, call him "Your Lordship."

In writing, it takes a little longer. For in the supercilious where one usually says "Mr. John Brown," and then follows it up by "Dear Sir," the approach is: "The Right Honorable Lord Renfrew," followed by "My Lord." And in conclusion one should write: "I have the honor to be, my Lord, Your Lordship's obedient and humble servant."

BUT if Edward (calling him by his first name) hang on to his title of the Prince of Wales, all the time he would have to be addressed as "His Royal Highness," which takes a lot of time to write on account of the capital letters. And if he tacked on all his Earls and his Dukedoms—good night!

For the boy's full name is: His Royal Highness Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David, R. G. F. C. K. T. G. C. S. I. G. M. G. G. O. E. G. O. G. O. G. M. B. M. G. Prince of Wales and Earl of Chester, Prince of Great Britain and Ireland, Duke of Cornwall (in peage of England by patent 1337), Duke of Rothesay, Earl of Carrick, Baron of Renfrew, Lord of the Isles, and Prince and Great Steward of Scotland (by ancient charter). Imagine the size of his card and he tried to tack on all those monickers!

COOLIDGE AVOIDS POLITICS IN TALK TO FRATERNALISTS

President Stresses Fellowship As Fundamental Principle of Democracy

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Fraternalism as a "strong reliance of ordered government according to public law," was emphasized Friday by President Coolidge in an address to a delegation representing the National Fraternal congress.

"The rituals of nearly all fraternal organizations," Mr. Coolidge said, "are based on religion. No true fraternity can rest on any other conception."

"It is for these reasons that they are supporters of the true aims of society, strong reliance of ordered government according to public law, able advocates of the cause of righteousness and religion and effective promoters of peace and good will among the nations of the earth."

The president characterized the spirit of brotherhood as the "fundamental principle of our country." As a result, he said, there is a very great deal more of equality in America than is yet appreciated. He named the elemental virtues necessary to success as including industry, loyalty, faith and fellowship.

Mr. Coolidge confined his remarks to his selected topic of fraternalism not touching at any time directly on politics.

LACK OF WORK CAUSES LODGING HOUSE SUICIDE

By Associated Press
Chippewa Falls—John Nyland, age 54, a transient laborer, was found dead in a local lodging house Thursday night. He committed suicide by taking poison. Dependancy because of failure to find work is believed to have been the motive.

American Jazz Meets Approval Of Royalty

S. S. Berengaria—Due to arrive at New York Friday afternoon in his second visit to the United States enroute to his ranch in Canada, the Prince of Wales spent the morning in final preparations for debarking. In the evening, the prince took time to receive a deputation of brother Masons, representing all the members of the order aboard ship. The deputation, which included two Americans, greeted Wales as past senior grand master of the United Grand lodge and as provincial grand master of Surrey. His Royal Highness responded cordially and delighted two of the members by autographing their Masonic traveling certificates.

Despite a private little dancing party with various women of his party, the prince could not resist the temptation of making his appearance on the polished floor of the ballroom. The heat, however, was so oppressive that he did not remain there long.

It has been remarked throughout the voyage that the prince is a great lover of music, and that he is partial to American jazz. Several times he has expressed his appreciation of the playing of an American jazz orchestra on board.

"The voyage has been a pleasurable experience for the prince and for all of the passengers. Wales has smiled his way into the hearts of all of his fellow passengers and he says that he has enjoyed his trip immensely."

LEAGUE WILL ACT ON ARMS QUESTION

Impression Prevails MacDonald Will Propose Extension of Arbitration

By Associated Press
Geneva—Having delivered a fatal blow to the famous pact of mutual assistance and guarantees elaborated by the disarmament section of the league of nations, the British government, it is expected, will come to Geneva for the fifth assembly of the league of nations with some practical suggestions which can serve as a substitute for the pact.

While nothing official has reached the secretariat of the league, the impression prevails that Premier MacDonald may favor on the floor of the assembly an extension of the policy of arbitration as the most feasible and most effective means of preventing war.

Whatever England may do, it is believed that this assembly will witness a great debate on the whole problem of disarmament.

COUNTY SEEKS CLEWS IN KIDNAPING OF MAN

By Associated Press
Buffalo, Minn.—Wright-co authorities expected to make additional arrests Friday in their effort to clear up the kidnaping of Joe McNelly, farmer, Montrose, on Sunday night by a group of men who are alleged to have threatened to hang him.

Sheriff Carl Anderson said no evidence had been uncovered to connect McNelly with the theft and a confession he wrote does not implicate him. He probably will be released Friday, according to the sheriff.

WHEELER OPENS FRESH ATTACK ON DAUGHERTY

Montana Senator Declares Himself Ready to Stand Trial Now Pending

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—Senator Wheeler of Montana, prosecutor of the Daugherty committee and LaFollette candidate for vice president, Friday renewed his war on "the Daugherty gang" in public office.

In a formal statement Mr. Wheeler dealt at length with an affidavit said to have been made in Atlanta penitentiary by George Remus, once the Ohio "Bootleg King," repudiating the sensational testimony he gave last spring before the Daugherty committee.

Testimony before the investigation, the senator's statement continued, "disclosed that the present warden of Atlanta penitentiary is a close friend and political associate of Harry M. Daugherty. The incident makes it clear that President Coolidge will have some house cleaning to do because some remnants of the Daugherty gang are still in office under the federal government."

According to information reaching Senator Wheeler and other members of the Daugherty committee, the new Remus affidavit directly repudiated Remus' testimony that he had paid about $250,000 to the late Jess Smith, Dr. Daugherty's companion for protection from prosecution. On the contrary, Remus said in the affidavit he never met Jess Smith or communicated with him directly or indirectly.

Testimony to the contrary, it is added, was given before the committee in the belief that it would aid him to secure his release from prison.

The senator added that before Remus had left the witness stand, information reached the committee which led it to proceed very cautiously in its further relations with the witness who shortly afterward was returned to prison.

In another statement Friday, Senator Wheeler reiterated that he was ready to go to trial at any time fixed by the prosecution on indictment pending in Montana, charging improper legal activities after his election to the senate.

POLICEMEN WILL GUARD CAVERLY COURT SEPT. 10

Precautions Will Be Taken to Prevent Demonstration When Sentence Is Passed

By Associated Press
Chicago—In his retirement he will maintain for the next 12 days, Judge John R. Caverly Friday began consideration of the sentence as will impose Sept. 10 on Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, confessed kidnapers slayers of Robert Frank.

He had been in the state 2,000 pages long record of the 32 days of testimony and argument in the judicial hearing which closed Thursday, in which the state demanded the gallows and the defense pleaded for imprisonment, offering a theory of mental sickness as mitigation.

In a private home within 100 miles of Chicago, the jurist, occupying a dual role of judge and jury, will weigh the evidence and prepare a written opinion, explaining the reasons for the sentence he will pronounce.

Before he abandoned the bench, Judge Caverly had arranged to admit only the defendants, their relatives and counsel, the state's attorneys and newspaper men to his courtroom when he fixes the fate of the youths.

Extra guards of policemen and deputies will exclude all others.

The precautions were taken, he said, not because of threatening letters he has received and which he attributed to cranks, but to prevent any demonstration. He has requested other judges in the criminal courts building to delay convening the courts until after the judgment has been passed.

FOUR BANDITS ESCAPE AFTER $112,000 HOLDUP

Newark, N. J.—Checks totalling $112,000 were taken from two North Ward National bank messengers early Friday at Broad and Lombard streets by four armed bandits who escaped.

The four bandits, who police believe were little more than youths, stopped the messengers at the points of guns, seized the bag containing the checks and sped away towards Kearny in a waiting automobile bearing a New York license.

"LITTLE ITALY" FEUD CLAIMS EIGHTH VICTIM

Chicago—The eighth victim of assassins in six weeks in "Little Italy" on the north side was shot to death on the stairs leading to his home early Friday. He was Frank Marotta, 30.

Marotta was not entirely unprepared for a deadly encounter, for three loaded revolvers and additional ammunition were found in his clothing, but the slayers had shot him before he had a chance to use his weapons.

Outcome of Voting on Agreement Is Doubtful Until Ten Minutes Before End

AGRICULTURE BACK PACT

Reds, Von Ludendorff Party and About 50 Nationalists Are Opposition

Berlin—The German Reichstag Friday accepted the Dawes reparation plan agreement concluded at the recent conference, by adopting a vote of 214 to 127, the necessary two-thirds majority required to put the railway bill into effect in pursuance of the provisions of the London agreement.

The German Nationalists whose open opposition to the agreement and whose attacks on it during the debate Thursday and Friday had made the results of the voting problematical, voted in favor of the banking bill but voted against the banking bill another of the Dawes measures, which nevertheless, was adopted by a vote of 235 to 172, a two-thirds vote, being necessary on this bill.

Up until 10 minutes before the vote was taken on the all important railway bill, the outcome of Friday's voting on the London agreement had been wholly conjectural. Although persons in well-informed circles had learned early in the day of a peace pact which was said to have been concluded between Foreign Minister Stresemann and the Nationalists.

RAIL BILL WINS
The industrial debenture bill, the third of those provided under the Dawes plan, also was adopted by the Reichstag by a vote of 214 to 127, the necessary two-thirds majority which was required, more than two-thirds of the Nationalists favoring its acceptance.

It was this eleventh hour agreement between the government and the Nationalists which resulted in the defeat of the opposition party and which enabled the government to obtain a constitutional majority in support of its work at London.

When the vote on the railway bill was announced Friday there was a deafening roar of howls and jeers from the Communists and the members of the extreme right. Admiral Von Tirpitz, Prince Bismarck and other Nationalist leaders and the party's agrarian wing, voted in favor of the agreement while the Communists, Von Ludendorff's party and about 50 Nationalists comprised the opposition.

CHIEF WOULD CLEAR UP FRAUD CHARGES

By Associated Press
Minneapolis—L. S. Rose, president of Rose Brothers Co., Minneapolis, will go to Chillicothe, O., Friday night in an attempt to clear up charges of conspiracy to defraud the government brought against three employees of the company in connection with wrecking buildings at Camp Sherman there.

"I have receipts showing we have paid for all the equipment we are 'taking from the camp,'" Mr. Rose said. "Jealousy by other contractors caused the trouble. We have paid several thousand dollars for materials we are removing and are living up to the terms of our contract."

Myron G. Rose, A. J. Phillips and Lawrence Williams were arrested and held on $5,000 bail each in connection with the charges.

BOY SAVED AS FATHER DROWNS NEAR MADISON

General's Trial Most Dramatic Of Soviets

Moscow—The trial and conviction Thursday of General Boris Savinkoff constituted probably the most dramatic case that has come before the revolutionary war tribunal. Savinkoff, former military governor of Petrograd and assistant minister of the Russian army in July, 1917. After the Bolshevik revolution, he assumed leadership of the anti-Bolshevik forces and organized the Yaroslavl rising which ended in demolition of the town with considerable bloodshed as well as numerous risings in Siberia and Ukraine. He raised an army to defend the constituent assembly in Samara and directed activities against the Bolsheviks from Poland. All of this Savinkoff acknowledges speaking with emotion he said to the court:

"I know your decision beforehand. I don't value my life and I am not afraid to die. I recognize all my faults but they were all involuntary as I never sought anything for myself."

The case was regarded by the government as important to its safety and prestige. The courtroom was packed with members of the government, the central committee of the Communist party, the war council and the most active members of the Soviet political administration. There was neither prosecution nor defense.

Ships Guard World Fliers

U. S. S. Richmond, at Ice Tickle Labrador — Continuing stormy weather has caused further postponement of the American Army world aviators' flight from Ivigut, Greenland. It is now announced that no attempt will be made to get away before Saturday morning.

The route of the flight stretches for 874 miles across the arm of the Atlantic which sweeps north-northwest into Davis strait and serves as a highway for icebergs floating down the Labrador current into the broad ocean.

Unusual precautions have been taken by the conveying naval squadron to safeguard the birdmen on this final and dangerous leg of their homeward trans-Atlantic swing. No less than six ships will be stationed along the route, in constant communication and with an elaborate system of signaling to the aviators as they pass.

AGED SAILOR TELLS TALE IN LINE ROW

Captain William Betts, 92, Describes Lake Conditions of Long Ago

By Associated Press
Washington Island—Old men continued to make history here Friday in the deposition hearing on the present State of Michigan in the Wisconsin-Michigan boundary dispute case pending before the Supreme Court of the United States.

Captain William Betts, 92 years old, was the first witness examined at the adjourned session. Incidents in his half century of sailing were recalled vividly by the aged man. Captain Betts was formerly a lighthouse tender in upper Green Bay. He testified to the amount of traffic passing through Deerp's Door passage, the boundary claimed by Michigan from 1855 to the present time. He came through this passage as a seaman before the mast in 1855, but as in the case of other witnesses told of the existence of another channel passage by Rock Island, the boundary claimed by Wisconsin, but was familiar with the traffic passing through it.

The hearings will be continued Saturday at Menominee.

The island on which the testimony is being taken is 40 miles from the land and the investigator made the trip by steam yacht. There is no communication other than by water.

RADIO WILL BRING LAFOLLETTE TALK TO PICNIC CROWD

9-Tube Set and Loud Speakers
Will Be Installed at Pierce
Park

The little town of Wononago which started the community this week by an announcement that Senator LaFollette would speak there on Labor day, in spite of the newspaper statement that LaFollette will broadcast a speech from Washington on that day, is as consistent as the Appleton Trades and Labor council which now announces that the senator will be the Labor day speaker at Pierce park. But the speech will be delivered through radio.

By an arrangement with the Langstead Electric company, the Trades and Labor council, a radio set will be installed at Pierce park in connection with the big Labor day celebration there Monday afternoon. The set is equipped with nine tubes and with a powerful loud speaker so that the radio message may be heard a considerable distance.

Senator LaFollette will speak in Washington, and the speech will be relayed by a number of western broadcasting stations. The speech will be broadcast at 4:30 Appleton time, or 9:30 eastern standard time. While the subject of the senator's address has not been announced, it is expected that he will outline the issues of the presidential campaign and will reply to the acceptance speeches of President Coolidge and John W. Davis, according to Fred Bachman, president of the Trades and Labor council.

It is expected that the Labor day celebration will draw the 5,000 and 6,000 persons to the park. All members of organized labor and their families, as well as other workingmen and members of farm organizations and their families have been invited to participate. The festivities will begin with a street parade at about 11 o'clock.

The Labor day address will be delivered by Sen. Henry LaFollette of Stoughton, candidate for lieutenant governor. He will speak at 2 o'clock in the afternoon as not to interfere with the radio address of Sen. LaFollette.

B. & L. FINANCING 33 MORE HOUSES

That construction of new homes in Appleton is not dwindling is indicated by the number of applications for loans that are being received by Appleton Building and Loan association.

"We need $100,000 to take care of the present demands," George H. Beckley, secretary, declares. "This is sufficient to finance 33 new homes."

Most families that ask loans are required to own their lots and usually have one or two thousand dollars or more laid aside to apply toward the cost. Applications therefore are for only about one-half the actual amount invested in the house.

The association is conducting a campaign to increase the amount of investments in its shares in order to keep the city's homebuilding program going on an extended scale.

But one building permit was issued at the city hall Thursday. Herman Woyatzke obtained permission to build a garage and chicken coop at 1059 Freedom-rod.

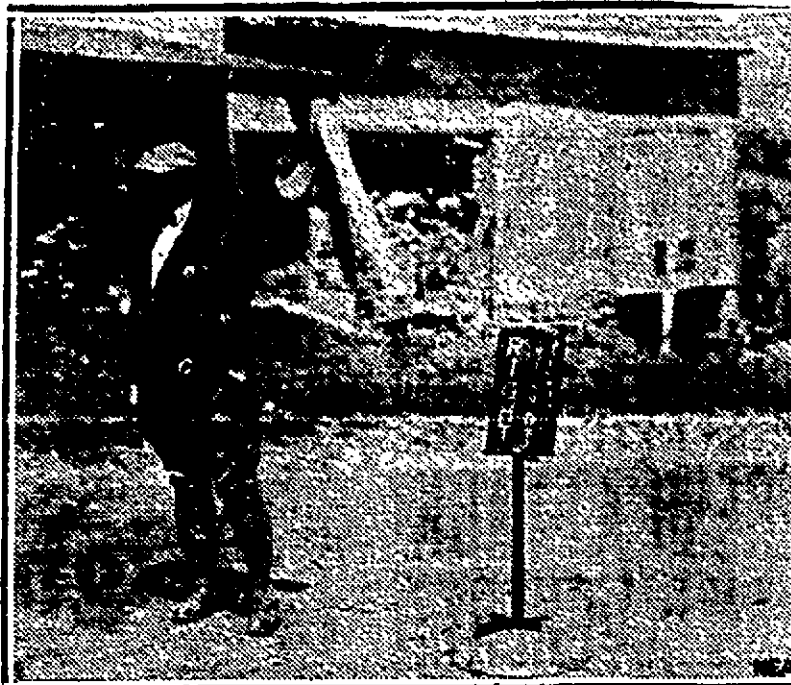

GUARDS AWAIT ORDERS ON DEFENSE DAY PLANS

Captain E. F. Grunderman, commander Co. D, has received a letter from Adjutant General Immel at Madison instructing commanding officers of national guard units to await further orders regarding observance of national defense day. This is taken to indicate that state officials will reverse their stand upon participation in the nationwide defense movement and that the Badger guard will play some part in the activities of the day.

Local guard companies commanders have also been notified to accept no more recruits. The Wisconsin guard being 39 percent over strength. This means that the names of men desiring admittance to the service will be placed on waiting lists.

KUCKUK IS SPEAKER AT G. O. P. DINNER

Conservative Republicans Will Urge Big Vote on Tuesday
for A. R. Hirst

Plans to support A. R. Hirst for governor and Senator Anton Kuckuk for reelection were discussed by about 50 Republicans of the county who gathered for dinner in the French room of Conway hotel Thursday evening. John Conway acted as chairman.

Senator Kuckuk, who came here from Shawano for the meeting, was the principal speaker. He analyzed the political situation in Wisconsin and declared himself wholly in favor of Mr. Hirst, former state highway commissioner, for governor. There is need of harmony in the state administration, he said, and there are many avenues of economy by which the taxes can be reduced.

The conservative Republican voters of the county will be urged to turn out Tuesday to vote, as the contest is a triangular one with much depending on its outcome.

Mr. Hirst was invited to the dinner but was unable to attend because of being scheduled to speak in Neenah Thursday evening. The meeting was adjourned early so those present could go to Neenah to hear him.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Walsh and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Coyle of Menasha returned Thursday night from a three days' visit at Milwaukee.

ARTHUR WEIGAND GIVES FACTS TO THE PUBLIC

I used to have my doubts about Tanlac, but now I consider it a wonderful medicine," recently stated Arthur J. Weigand, proprietor Weigand Sales Co., Chippewa Falls, Wis.

"For some three months before taking Tanlac I was feeling very much run-down in health. I had lost my appetite and even the smell of food would turn my stomach. I would have dizzy spells when everything turned black before me, couldn't sleep and had an awful tired feeling.

"My wife, who had taken Tanlac to great advantage advised me to try it and I can say without exaggeration that three bottles put me back in first-class condition. I eat, sleep and work as well as I ever did and enjoy the best of health. Here's hoping that my experience will cause others who are not feeling right to try Tanlac."

TRAFFIC OFFICERS 'SPEED 'EM UP' TO STOP CONGESTION

Old-time Laws Go in Discard As Cops Try to Speed Up
Traffic

Traffic authorities are finally coming to realize the wisdom of a singular change in their traffic laws.

That is a change from slower to faster traffic in congested districts and during heavy traffic hours!

It is an anomaly in safety regulation, a direct departure from the practice of keeping the speed of vehicles down, the more congested the area the lower the speed.

Now, after years of study and practice, police officials and other students of traffic find that automobiles should be kept on the move to avoid congestion. Instead of falling prey to the difficulty of congested traffic, they have finally decided to take the bull by the horns and cure that bugaboo itself.

The cure is the speeding of traffic. And this is sought by means that practically break the existing traffic laws.

LAWS "BROKEN"

Automobiles are permitted to go through safety zones, instead of around them. They may pass street cars at discreet distances, in congested districts, while the car is taking on or discharging passengers. And at some points in certain cities, automobiles are directed to pass street cars to the left.

All to speed up—rather than slow up—traffic.

Besides breaking old traffic regulations, authorities are seeking more permanent means of solving the congestion problem. They are widening streets, providing more one-way streets, eliminating bottle necks, installing the block signal system and controlling parking more thoroughly.

The boulevard stop plan is one of the newest methods to rush drivers downtown in the morning and back home in the evening. Many cities now prohibit driving directly into a main street, and provide a fine or imprisonment unless every motorist stops before entering or crossing a street.

There have been cases also of arresting drivers who traffic police thought were going too slow. And there have been suggestions for additional regulations among which the would prohibit the use of congested streets by inexperienced drivers.

In New York another suggestion has been made by which no auto would be permitted downtown with less than three passengers. This would keep many auto owners from driving down to business alone, or even being driven down by their chauffeurs. It would mean the use of one vehicle where two or more previously had been taken out.

W. F. WINSEY

During the greater part of my life, I have worked for the public as superintendent of schools and a special newspaper promoter of worthy, farm, labor, business and community movements. I am now a candidate for the office of register of deeds. As such candidate, I had hoped to meet and to invite personally the support of each voter in the country. I found before I had gone far, however, that I had attempted a literal impossibility. So I am resorting to the newspaper column to help myself that I have used often, more or less effectively, to assist the public. I am here inviting the voter whom I have failed to meet thus far for the purpose indicated to honor me with his support in the coming primary election. If he does that he will suffer no private loss, do injury to no one, help to improve and economize official service, and recognize the present and past work of the writer in a substantial form, more satisfactory and desirable than jewels.

BLAINE'S CANDIDACY

Governor Blaine is an anomaly in the Wisconsin campaign. While he has the formal O. K. of Senator La Follette, he is being vigorously opposed by much of the La Follette organization in the state and is condemned by many of the leading progressives. Speaker Dahl of the last assembly says, in announcing his support of A. R. Hirst for governor: "Wisconsin progressives who have the welfare of their state at heart will spare no effort to retire John J. Blaine from public office." Senator Severson, progressive leader in the state senate, is equally strong in his opposition to Blaine. The railway workers progressive political club, Milwaukee county, has resolved that the "interests of the state, and especially the working class, will best be served by the defeat of John J. Blaine for governor."

Harley F. Nickerson, vice-president of the International association of Machinists and formerly progressive candidate for lieutenant-governor, is out against Blaine, as is Mrs. C. E. Hoebel, president of the Madison Progressive association. Senator John C. Schuman, another La Follette progressive leader in the senate, who is campaigning against Blaine, says the governor has adopted a "drifting and do-nothing policy." An affidavit has been published in a Madison paper by one Edward Gleason to the effect that Theodore Dammann, the Blaine candidate for secretary of state in opposition to La Follette's endorsement of Fred Zimmerman, in reply to an expression of surprise that Blaine should support a candidate contrary to La Follette's approval said: "What the hell do we care for La Follette?"

Edwin J. Gross, president of the La Follette Progressive association of Wisconsin, is uncompromising in his determination to bring about Blaine's defeat. He charges that Blaine has deserted the progressive cause in Wisconsin; that he is "right-about-face" on "almost every important question;" that he has been alternately with the wets and the dries; that while he is for La Follette today, six and seven years ago when La Follette needed him most, he was doing nothing for him, and that "during his political life he has been the candidate of the Republicans, the Independents, the Equity society, the Non-Partisan league, the dries and the wets" and was "even campaign manager for Woodrow Wilson." He blames Blaine for the dismal record of the last legislature and for the failure to secure tax reform. He says that "during his entire term as governor he (Blaine) permitted roads to be built without complaint, (and) now that the man who built the roads is a candidate for his job he is against good roads. Before election he was for a gas tax; after the election he vetoed the gas tax which was passed by a progressive legislature. Now he is advancing so many ideas on this subject that I doubt very much whether he knows just what he wants."

After reviewing the collapse of the Blaine administration, and the many alleged inconsistencies of the governor, Mr. Gross concludes that: "If John Blaine's administration had been a success he would not now be compelled to call on Senator La Follette for help. If he cannot stand on his own feet he has no business being governor."

Here is a curious family row, Mr. La Follette has given the governor his approval, but La Follette's chief lieutenant ants in Wisconsin are arrayed against Mr. Blaine. We think the men who are on the ground and who have been in intimate contact with Blaine during his administration are the better judges of his progressiveness and his capacities for the office he occupies than is Senator La Follette. We think Mr. La Follette's endorsement is purely perfunctory, that he puts his O. K. on the governor's candidacy because of the fact that Blaine was apparently in control of the state organization and this seemed to be the logical course.

This much may be said from a disinterested standpoint. The concrete results of the Blaine administration, whether in legislation or in administrative improvement, are nil. There is no constructive to point to. The expenditures have increased enormously, vastly more taxes have been collected than the state requires with an accumulated surplus that is running into many millions of dollars; boards and commissions have been increased for political purposes; the state university has been made a tool of politics, and the only visible evidence of advancement, the construction of improved highways, is condemned by the governor. Mr. Blaine is at outs with the progressives, is at outs with the legislature, is at outs with the highway department, has been at outs with the state board of control, has been at outs with the heads of most of the public institutions of the state and has removed some of the best of them, evidently for political purposes. He appointed a leader of the wets as prohibition officer of Wisconsin, and there is no longer even a pretense of enforcing the law, yet he claims to be for the upholding of the Eighteenth amendment; he has interfered with the courts of the state and has been at outs with its judges.

If there has ever been a governor who has subjected his office more to the exigencies of politics, and whose course and policies have been determined more by political favoritism and political reprisals, than that John J. Blaine we do not know who he was. Moreover, there were scandals at Madison during the last sitting of the legislature that brought serious reproach upon the name of this state. The governor made no real attempt to clear up these scandals. We cannot see any reason for retaining him. He cannot work with those with whom he is politically affiliated, and he cannot accomplish anything without working with them.

Wisconsin needs a new deal at Madison. It needs a "common sense" government, a man as governor who will try to serve the interests of the people first and not the purposes, quarrels and selfishness of its politicians. It needs a man who will be "just a good governor," and who will not attempt to constitute himself the whole political machinery of the state, including the legislature and the judiciary. We are bed-ridden with the kind of politics the present administration represents. It is absurd to talk of progress under that kind of government. It cannot be had.

We think Mr. Hirst would represent an improvement over Mr. Blaine. He is not identified with party or factional politics to such an extent as to make him prejudiced or ineffective. He has the endorsement of many of the La Follette progressives. He has been a hardworking servant of the state and has helped to give Wisconsin the best road system in the United States. These are recommendations for his fitness and capacity. He has a clean record as a citizen and public servant. All of these things recommend him, it seems to us in the present situation, as the candidate who should be nominated for governor in the September primary.

TRASH

CONSIDER the things that are packed in a trunk. No doubt, you would call them, just trash. The junkman might purchase the outfit for junk, yet he couldn't buy them for cash. A worn pair of shoes that are brownish with age are packed in some cotton, with care. They've rested since time has turned many a page; since a wee baby's Mom put them there. A box full of lace that has never been used. Another that's packed full of brass. Just memories sweet that must not be abused; just things that a grandmother made. An old photo album that's faded and torn, with pictures of Dad as a lover. It may be all ruffled, but ne'er can be shorn of the memory that's held dearth its cover. Just trash, you may say. Things away out of date. But, after their story is told, you'll know that to someone, they're worth their weight a hundred times over, in gold.

Health Talks

THE TREATMENT OF GOITRE

The mass or universal administration of iodine for the prevention of simple goitre, as employed in the schools of several cities in Michigan, Ohio and other sections of the goitre district does effect the cure of goitre in a considerable number of cases in girls and boys when there is already some noticeable enlargement of the thyroid gland. This practice of furnishing an iodine ration to every school child is approved by the health authorities. It has proved exceedingly valuable as a prophylactic measure against a disease condition which, prior to the adoption of the iodine rationing practice, affected about half of all the school children in many schools in the Great Lakes basin. Records showing the administration of such an iodine ration to thousands of school children there is no instance of any injury or any ill effect from the iodine. This is probably due to the fact that the quantity administered is infinitesimal, scarcely enough in a year to make what we would ordinarily consider a medicinal dose. As a rule each boy and girl in school is given one minute dose each week throughout the forty weeks of school, and the dose is equivalent to a very small fraction of a drop of iodine. In many places a proprietary iodine compound is preferred by the health authorities. It comes in a pretty package and has some mysterious something about it which even some doctors like to believe in. But this nostrum is unwarrantably expensive and moreover it has absolutely no advantage over the ordinary forms of iodine, such as potassium iodide or sodium iodide or tincture of iodine (iodine is older spelling) of several other well known iodine preparations which have long served medicinal uses. For a school child, one drop of the common brown tincture of iodine, the liquid which is so generally used to swab fresh wounds and to paint over bruises, may be given once a week, preferably in a glass of drinking water, in more than a glassful if you wish to dilute the iodine enough to prevent all taste.

Through the recommendations of health authorities in Michigan, West Virginia and other places where goitre has prevailed to an extraordinary degree, salt manufacturers are now marketing through the regular grocery trade ordinary free-running table salt which contains a minute quantity of sodium iodide, and as this tastes like ordinary salt and costs the same it makes an excellent means of providing an adequate ration for the family. Although the use of minimum quantities of iodine as a prophylactic has brought about the cure of some cases of established goitre, the health authorities do not advise laymen to experiment with iodine when goitre is already established, and I think the health authorities are right about that for in certain cases, iodine in any quantity may prove injurious. In the cystic type of goitre it can do no good—only surgical treatment avails. In the exophthalmic type, it may do harm; in any such case, even if the iodine does no harm, the patient certainly requires proper medical care.

Probably the only alternative means for the prevention of goitre is the consumption of sea food—fresh sea fish and shell fish. Some such item should be in the bill of fare three or four times every week.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Goitre

Is there any cure for goitre besides an operation? (Mrs. W. E.)
Answer.—In many cases goitre is curable by medicinal treatment which is a question for your physician, not for me, or by X-ray treatment, or by rest and open air treatment, depending on the type of goitre and the individual requirements.

Worry

Would a person who has constantly worried every day for over a year be liable to go to an insane hospital for treatment of the mind to get well? (E. F.)
Answer.—Not unless insane. Worry is not a cause of insanity. But an insane person may worry over trifling things or imagined things.

World's News
Told In Brief,
Simple Style

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

Old-line politicians keep worrying over what will happen if the presidential election is thrown into Congress. One old-line suggestion is that the national chairman agree in advance to let the presidential electors, regardless of party, vote for the candidate with a popular plurality, even though he lacks a "majority over all." Constitutionally the electors may vote as they please, but practically this right has lapsed. It isn't likely the chairmen will agree to revive it. It might do this time but not suit so well later.

ANYBODY BUT BRYAN?

If congress does not have to make the choice, another suggestion is that maybe the conservative Republicans in the house will vote for Davis rather than stay deadlocked. Why? Well, if the house fails to elect a president, the vice president, who's chosen by the senate, will become president automatically. It's assumed that the Progressive senators, deeming Bryan reasonably progressive, would join the Democrats in such a case, electing him. The idea is that the conservative Republican congressman would prefer voting even for Davis to seeing Bryan in the White house.

A HARD CHOICE

This might be so, if the Republican ticket ran third. That would leave the senate no choice but between Bryan and Wheeler. Probably the conservatives would do almost anything to prevent either from becoming president.

TOO MUCH OF A "DEAL"

But if the Progressives run third, the senate's choice will be between Daves and Bryan. The conservative Republican congressmen might conceivably say: "We're deadlocked anyway—can't elect Coolidge. Let's vote for Davis, to keep Bryan out." But in return for helping Davis they surely would insist on the senate Democrats' help in making Daves vice president. Now Bryan, if the Democrats stuck by him, certainly would win, for the Progressives would prefer him to Daves. It isn't believable that any Democratic senators would dare to desert, under such circumstances. It would be too obvious—and too dangerous—a conservative "deal."

IF, IF, IF

Or if the Democrats run third—that would make Daves and Wheeler the senate candidates. It's a foregone conclusion that Daves would get all the Republican votes and also—in preference to Wheeler—the votes of all conservative Democrats, electing him. The house Republicans certainly wouldn't help elect Davis to prevent THIS.

MISERS OF LITERATURE

What has become of the miser of literature? Are we to suppose that the familiar figure has all but passed away from fiction because he has passed away from life?

That is hardly likely, because it is impossible to believe that the great human passion of greed for gold is less powerful today than it was in the days of old when almost every teller took a shot at describing the reactions of some lonely hermit gloating at midnight over his pile of gold that he kept hidden away in a secret spot under the floor that could be reached only by removing a tile.

Probably English and American readers the most familiar figure among the long line of miser figures in literature is George Eliot's Silas Marner. Every school child learns how the weaver of the story loses his gold and finds in the place of it the golden-haired little girl who reclaims his soul. George Eliot was a born preacher and the story of the weaver is very characteristic of her not only by of her age as well. She and her generation could create a miser for no other reason than to reclaim him.

Imperial Wizard Evans is on record as opposing La Follette, on the Ku Klux Klan's behalf, and neutral as between Coolidge and Davis. But just as Evans was saying this, Davis came out against the Klan. Whether, after this, the Klan will stay neutral hasn't developed yet.

Moving Picture Scene Influences Our Taste In Room Decoration

Washington, D. C.—Moving pictures have often been accused of lowering the standard of the American home, but in one respect, at least, they are credited with raising it. They have taught people to appreciate beautiful houses, artistically designed and decorated. According to a well-known New York architect, an amazing improvement in popular taste has been noted by his profession since the introduction of super-feature pictures. "The beauty of a perfect American Colonial facade or a Louis XV drawing-room is not lost upon the great bulk of movie fans," he says. "Unconsciously they absorb the lesson and later make use of it in a limited way in their own homes. Some of them are even stimulated by their movie experience to study period furniture. Frequently, a client will come to me with the suggestion that we make the library windows of her new house 'like those in that French picture' she saw a few weeks ago, or that the book-cases he built 'in that quaint alcove effect they used in last week's film.'"

In the old days, movie interiors were ridiculously inadequate. The walls of the rooms were made of painted canvas, which shook and swayed and threatened to fall whenever the action of the characters became violent or when they opened and closed the doors. There were flat stairways and halls, painted without regard to perspective. The drawing-rooms of the English nobility were a bewildering mass of ornate tables, American davenport, gilt chairs and bric-a-brac such as even a successful bootlegger would disdain to own. And later when the exteriors were flashed on the screen, the beholder was astonished that they could contain such spacious halls and so much furniture.

INTERIORS BUILT IN STUDIOS
Nowadays, the exterior is chosen first, its dimensions carefully noted, and an interior built to fit in the studio. Plans are drawn by the architect, and from his blue prints the studio carpenters build the entire lower floor of the house, painting, papering or paneling the walls as directed. When completed it looks much like a section of any house, except that the ceilings may be missing and the grand central stairway in the hall may lead nowhere. Entering the hall one may come upon a reception room at the left, a library at the right, further on a living room and dining room—possibly a conservatory.

While outdoor scenes may easily be obtained by sending the company on location, interiors must be built at the studios. This is due to the difficulty of transporting the lighting equipment, which consists of huge sunlight arcs of 2,000 candle-power Cooper-Hewitts, spots and Kliegls. All of these are necessary for interior scenes, but are too bulky to be handled in the restricted space of normal rooms. Moreover, the average house is not charged with sufficient current to operate these batteries of lights, whereas the studios are supplied with special cables. The existence of the ceiling in the ordinary house is also an obstacle, since it prevents the placement of the powerful top lights which eliminate all shadows.

CORRECT AS TO DETAIL
Modern movie interiors must be not only harmonious in line and form, but they must be absolutely correct as to detail. If anything, art must suffer in the cause of accuracy. Moving picture audiences are no longer the easily pleased folk who overlooked the drawbacks of shabby canvas scenery. They have become extremely sophisticated, and some degree cynical. They quickly spot any carelessness in the appearance of a set or any incongruity in its relation to the characters.

The cost of these detailed backgrounds is not entirely ignored, as movie press agents would sometimes have us believe, but it does not seem to be of major importance. There is apparently an appalling waste of materials about every moving picture studio. When Rex Ingram made "Sca-mouché" the studio carpenters and painters were busy for months building Louis XV furniture. Then when the picture was finished there was a fire and all the gorgeous pieces were destroyed.

"So that it could not be used in another picture," an assistant director explained. "Who says the movies make no sacrifice for art?"

There is a good deal of competition among movie directors, who are always striving to surpass one another in the beauty and originality of their productions. Thus, the quality of movie architecture is constantly improving—and with it the popular taste.

CHURCH SOCIETIES
The first of the new series of card parties by the Ladies Aid society of St. Joseph church was held Thursday afternoon in St. Joseph hall. Prize winners were Mrs. Mary Thomas and Mrs. L. Walter at sheepskin; Mrs. J. Stier, Mrs. W. Neugebauer, and Mrs. A. Major plumpack. The next party will be held Thursday, Sept. 4.

They Couldn't Wait Until Morn To Get Married

County Clerk Brissette of Menominee, Mich., says it is not a pleasant sensation to be awakened at 1:30 in the morning to accommodate a couple who wish to be married. The clerk was roused from his bed shortly after midnight by Myrlon Selms, aged 20, of New London, and Miss Margaret Zang, also aged 20, of New London, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zang. When asked what all the rush was about they calmly replied that they wanted to get home before morning.

SCHNEIDER TO BE CHIEF SPEAKER AT LABOR DAY PROGRAM

Congressman Will Give Address Following Parade Monday Morning

Kaukauna—With the railroad shops and mills and other industries closed and with a general suspension of business in all other lines the Labor day celebration under the auspices of the Trades and Labor council promises to be well attended. The speaker will be Congressman George J. Schneider, who will deliver an address at the municipal play grounds immediately after the parade.

The parade will be at 9:30 in the morning and those taking part in it will not be confined to members of labor organizations. All workers in and around Kaukauna, including farmers, are invited to march. Labor day was set aside by congress exactly 30 years ago for those who toil so that all will be welcome to be in line.

Formation of the parade, which will be headed by the Kaukauna band of 24 pieces, will be at the municipal playgrounds. The line of march will be to Second-st; west on Second-st to Reum-ave; south on Reum-ave to Third-st; east on Third-st to Crooks-ave; north on Crooks-ave to Second-st; from Second-st to Main-ave, from Main-ave across the bridge and down Lawrence-st, south on Lawrence-st to Wisconsin-ave, east on Wisconsin-ave and thence back to the municipal playgrounds.

After the address by Congressman Schneider a picnic will be given by the different labor organizations. Lunch and refreshments can be had on the grounds. In the evening a dance will be held at the auditorium under the auspices of the Kaukauna Trades and Labor council. The Electric City orchestra of eight pieces will furnish the music.

Moon-1925 Models Have Genuine Balloon Tires

Full Size Balloon Tires, and 20 Inch Disc Wheels Are Standard Equipment At No Extra Cost, on Latest Models.

That the Moon Motor Car company adheres rigidly to its high standards of motor car building and equipment is clearly shown by their action in adopting only genuine full size balloon tires, and the small 20 inch disc wheels, as standard equipment at no extra cost on their full line of 1925 models.

Moon stands four square on the balloon tire issue, says George H. Kublin, Chief Engineer for MOON, and although some automobile manufacturers are equipping their 1925 models with semi-balloon tires and the regular, large size wheels, we consider such equipment a compromise and a make shift which sacrifices both the riding qualities and performance of cars so equipped, says Kublin.

Before adopting full size balloon tires says Kublin, our Engineering Department thoroughly tested out both the genuine balloon tire and the semi-balloon tire equipment, subjecting them to hundreds of miles of road service, and we have carefully studied the effect of both types of low pressure tires on the riding qualities, performance and wear on the car itself. By actual tests it was revealed that the semi-balloon tire made riding just a little easier than the old style high pressure tire, and that cars equipped with semi-balloon tires did not perform nearly as well, especially on hills, as those equipped with balloon tires.

In order for Moon to adopt the genuine balloon tire equipment on its 1925 models, it was necessary for the company to discard thousands of dollars worth of old style wheels, and thus it will be seen that Moon adheres to its high standards even at a financial sacrifice, and pursues the policy of giving the motoring public what it considers to be the best value and most satisfactory product, regardless of cost.

M'CANN TELLS OF ESSEX COACH DEMON

"It is the issue of closed car comforts at open car costs which has brought such exceptional success to the Essex six Coach this year," said Mr. J. T. McCann, dealer for Hudson and Essex cars. Mr. McCann continued.

"Already 25 per cent more Essex sixes have been manufactured and sold this year than were produced of the popular Essex 'fours' in all of 1923. That is doubly amazing because 1923 was itself a record-breaking year and because nearly every other maker of cars has been forced this year to cut down his volume."

"But the Essex six Coach, offering six cylinder advantages and closed car comforts at an extraordinary moderate price, has arisen above all trade conditions and difficulties and has been the outstanding success of the year."

"Let me recite a few facts about this Essex Coach. First, it is larger and roomier than any previous model. Second, it is equipped with genuine full size balloon tires which give it a riding ease which cannot be adequately described—it must be experienced. Third, it will out-perform the highest expectations of its owners—in smoothness, quietness, marvelous pick-up and climbing ability."

"All these advantages are offered in a six cylinder enclosed car which sells at just about the price of an open 'four'."

"The public's answer to such a value has been a capacity demand all year long."

"Now, with balloon tires added, and with a design which easily handles all the operating conditions which these tires bring about, the Coach is more popular than ever. When you consider that the special closed car seasons of the year—fall and winter—are almost on us, you can see why we are so optimistic about the Essex Coach."

"Especially we invite all former Essex owners to inspect this present car. We know that they will find their cars with the highest pride, but we are sure we can show them something better in the Essex six Coach."

INDIAN COLLEGE TRAINS FOR ARMY

By Associated Press
Lawrence, Kan.—Thirty-seven tribes of American Indians are represented in the two Kansas National Guard units, of 80 men each, at Haskell institute here. These are said to be the only two Indian units in the United States.

Company D of the 137th Infantry was organized at Haskell three years ago. A few days later the Haskell authorities were granted permission to organize a troop of cavalry. The infantry company won out over every competing outfit in field activities at the last Kansas National Guard encampment.

Three white men, instructors at Haskell, are officers in the cavalry troop. Only two white men, both officers, are connected with the infantry unit. Walter D. Owl, first lieutenant of the infantry outfit, is a full blooded Indian and the son of a chief.

FORDSON IDEA SAVES $20,000 ANNUALLY

When the records in the ledger show that Fordsons are saving approximately $20,000 annually for a corporation, there can be little doubt as to their appreciation of Fordson ability—and performance.

Ask the Northern Coopersage Company of St. Paul, Minn., what they think of the practicability of Fordson power and there is no question what their answer would be. They would doubtless show you the figures recording the original Fordson cost and then, the two score thousands that the tractor is saving them.

The Northern Coopersage Co. maintains a central manufacturing plant at St. Paul for turning out buckets, barrels, kegs and other coopersage products. Formerly (until the advent of their Fordsons purchase) they cut logs at their lumber camps in northern Minnesota and shipped them in the rough to their plant at St. Paul where they were converted into staves of the various dimensions desired.

However, in shipping the logs, it was found that the company was paying freight on a considerable amount of material. For, only the center sound portions of the logs could be used for stave stock, the balance being of no value for their purposes.

Considering the tonnage of rough timber being received annually at the St. Paul plant and the proportionate weight of the waste, it was conservatively estimated that the company had been paying out over $20,000 annually in freight on this waste stuff.

The foregoing situation came to the notice of the Owens Motor Sales, Inc., which has a staff of engineers prying into such matters and solving many manufacturing problems—the Fordson way.

Their suggestion was a simple one and effective as simple. They said—why not take a Fordson and a saw mill up to the lumber camps, dress the logs into the stave lengths, desired and ship the finished staves to St. Paul to be made into the various coopersage products.

Consequently, the Northern Coopersage Co. allowed the Owens engineers to design special equipment for them and which later proved so satisfactory as to lead them to purchase two more Fordsons.

A special saw frame and carriage was designed, on which was mounted a small gasoline engine. The latter was used to feed the logs onto the saw table. The Fordson furnished the power for operating the saw mill itself.

The logs fed onto the saw frame by the gas engine were cut into various stave lengths and then were put through the rip saw lengthwise to split into halves and quarters. The cut-off saw is 60 inches in diameter, while the ripping saw measures 48 inches.

This demonstration of this specially designed and equipped Fordson saw mill outfit so impressed the officials of the coopersage company that they purchased two more Fordsons immediately, using the three at the northern logging camps. They have a fourth Fordson at the St. Paul plant.

One of the tractors was belted up to a circular stave saw that takes the quartered log lengths from the first outfit and dresses them up into finished staves.

Now it is that the company is shipping only the staves to the manufacturing plant at St. Paul and paying only the same freight rate as formerly, when they shipped in the big rough logs.

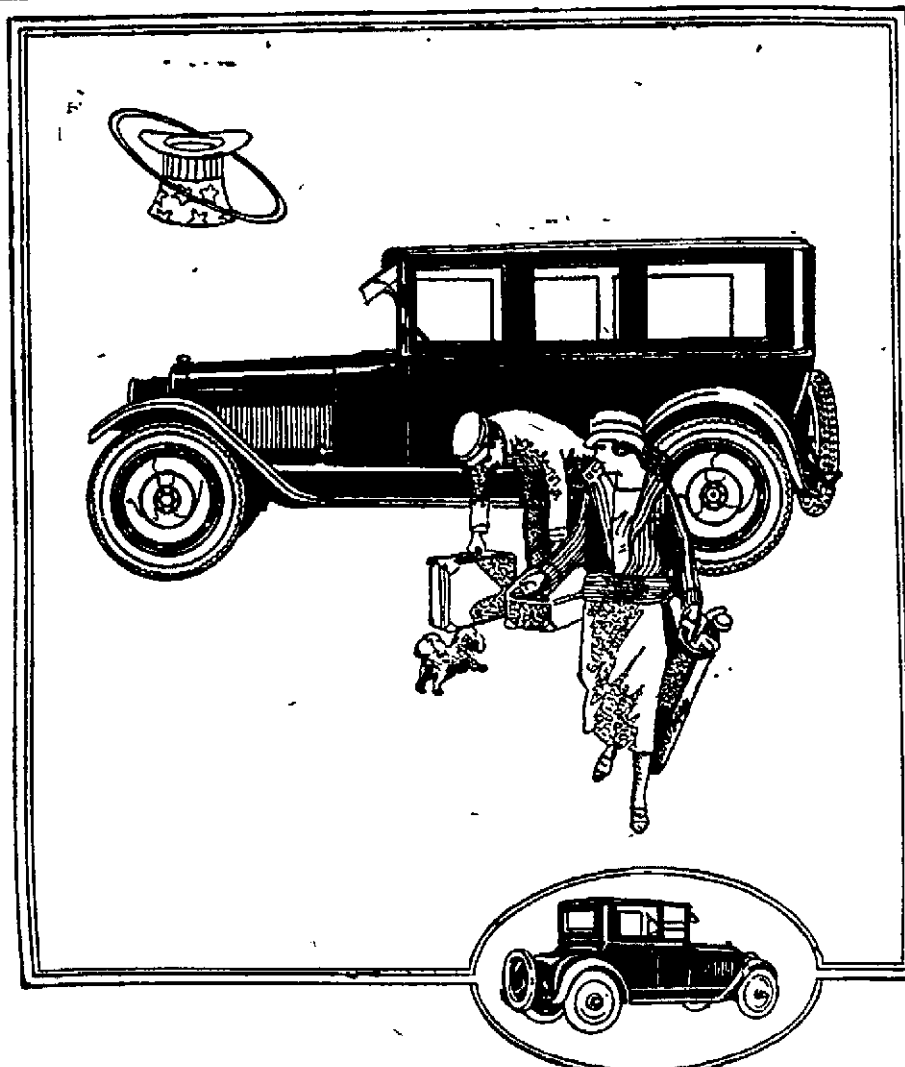

The Fordson "No. 3" at the Northern Coopersage lumber camp is used with tractors for hauling logs from the woods to the sawmills, wherever they may be located; also, for hauling loads of the finished staves from the camps to the railroad stations for shipment to St. Paul. Oftentimes, the saw mill operations may be twenty miles or more from the railway lines.

The fourth Fordson is stationed at the St. Paul plant and is used for all kinds of hauling around the yards in and out of the plant. It is equipped with special hitch and couplers for use with some fifteen trailers of two particular types. This tractor is on the "go" all the time and is doing work formerly requiring three teams of horses and, of course, three men.

W. J. Murray, president of the Northern Coopersage Co., upon being questioned as to "What do you think of Fordsons?" remarked, "We had been well satisfied with the tractor for hauling logs and staves around the plant; but had no thought of using Fordsons with the saw mill equipment, until it was suggested to us. Even then, it seemed that it might be more suitable to our requirements to use a larger and much more expensive caterpillar type machine."

"We were, however, so thoroughly convinced with the Fordson saw mill demonstration that we purchased the additional machines, now using four Fordsons in our operations."

"We know what we are saving by slipping to our plant only staves instead of the logs in the rough. It is, however, a bit too early to tell just what the upkeep costs will be on the tractors running the saws. But our experience in the cost of maintaining the Fordsons for hauling work, leads us to believe that we will find them all to be very economical."

DODGE BROTHERS MOTOR CARS IN SPECIAL TYPES

Special types have recently been added to Dodge Brothers standard line of motor cars.

A Touring Car, a Roadster, A Type A Sedan, and a 4-Passenger Coupe. These types have been created for that substantial group of motorists who favor individuality in motor car appointment and design.

In fundamental construction they are identical with Dodge Brothers standard product. Their accentuated smartness, however, is strikingly obvious in many elaborations of equipment and refinements of detail.

Special 6-ply, balloon-type tires, nickel-trimmed radiator shell, front and rear bumpers, motorometer with lock, special blue leather upholstery (for touring car and roadster), special body striping, rear view mirror, automatic windshield wiper, scuff plates, cowlights and steel disc wheels constitute the more important items of special equipment.

SPECIAL 4-PASSENGER COUPE
To see this car is to recommend its beauty.

It stands out strikingly, both in the symmetry of its design and in the excellent taste and smartness of its equipment.

In the final analysis, however, the most popular feature will unquestionably prove to be its exceptional riding ease.

The seats, the new spring suspension and Dodge Brothers special 6-ply balloon-type tires unite in achieving an altogether new efficiency in protecting passengers from the ruts and jolts of the road.

SPECIAL TYPE-A SEDAN

Three considerations recommend this Sedan to a wide circle of buyers—A new and substantial beauty—heightened by many special appointments.

A seat depth, body length and spring suspension that have revolutionized the riding qualities of all Dodge Brothers Motor Cars.

OLDSMOBILE SIX IS BUT LITTLE CHANGED

Radiator Shell and Hood of Different Design; Graceful Double Curve

The Oldsmobile Six has been introduced in its refined and beautiful 1925 costume by the Olds Motor Works, Lansing, Mich. Fundamentally the car remains the same as it was when it was introduced nearly a year ago and at which time it created a sensation in automotive circles as the lowest priced six cylinder car in the world.

For the coming year it will add to this proven automobile refinements in line and mechanics.

The most striking changes are in the design of the radiator shell and hood. The radiator shell is nickel-plated, the most approved and advanced designs in both European and American car construction. It has a graceful double curve at the top with a slightly curved peak downward in the center which acts as a base for the long known Oldsmobile oval emblem.

Extending downward the radiator shell follows slightly concave lines, broadening outward at the base, which continues the easy curves that are features of the design.

The shell is somewhat higher than the previous style, which makes possible an almost level, stream line hood extending back to the rear of the cowl. The hood follows the double curve of the top of the radiator shell, adding distinction.

The refinement of the front lines is further added to by the use of new bull-shaped head and cowl lights, which are standard on all models. These lights are of a heavier and more substantial design than were the drum type formerly used, and their curving lines harmonize perfectly with the new design.

Durable Duco satin finish is used on all models. The standard models are finished in Oldsmobile blue, a rich, dignified shade, trimmed with ivory striping on the body and wheels.

EASY RIDING AND SAFETY FEATURES NEW BUICK SIX

FRONT SPRINGS

Front springs on all Buick models are the semi-elliptic type, specially designed and of proper length, to insure their working in harmony with the springs in the rear. The springs are specially adapted to each type of body. All springs both front and rear are designed to furnish a maximum amount of friction between the spring leaves, which helps to give them their smooth riding qualities. This friction between the plates of Buick springs should be maintained, and particular emphasis is laid on the fact that the surfaces between the spring leaves should not be oiled. The springs are not only carefully designed in themselves but are built to work in harmony with all other units.

REAR SPRING SUSPENSION

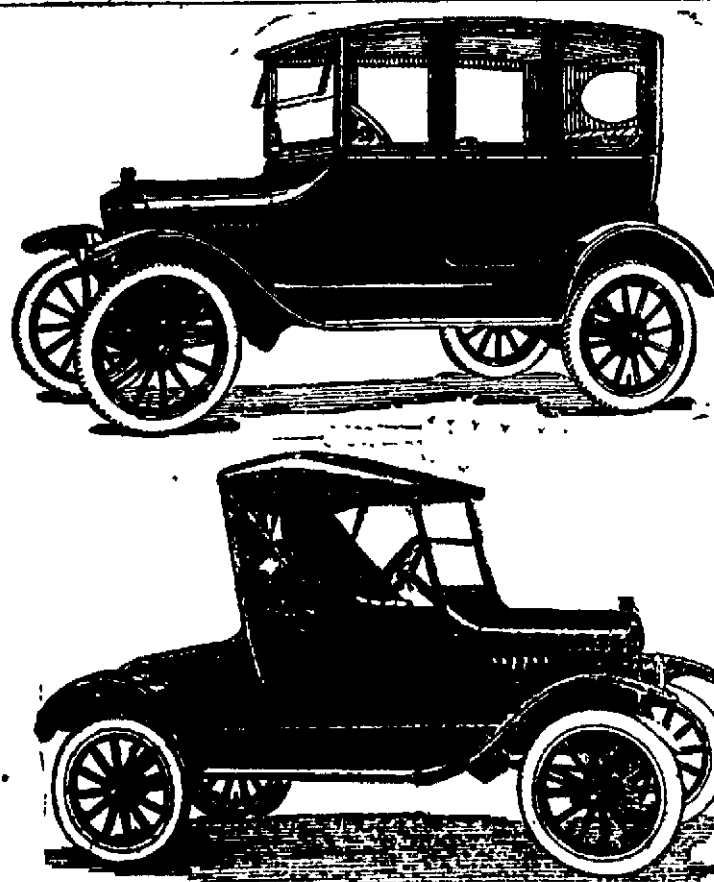

The rear springs on all the new Buicks are of the full floating, offset, cantilever type. They are extra long and are so designed that the road shocks are absorbed and side-sway practically eliminated. The springs are anchored to the rear axle on saddles, which oscillate with the distortions or deflections of the springs, thus relieving the axle housing of strains that might tend to cause misalignment. The heavy saddles that attach the cantilever springs to the frame are built on heavy mountings with large bearing surfaces, giving free movement to the spring at this point. The front end of the spring is attached to the frame by heavy bolts, affording a large bearing surface. All bearing surfaces of the springs are easily lubricated. The springs are specially designed to carry the different body types and to insure easy riding. In this type spring the short heavy rear portion carries a much greater load than the lighter front portion. Consequently, in driving over ordinary roads, most of the action is taken by the front portion of the springs, while in driving over rough roads or with a full load the heavy rear portion of the springs comes into action. The combination of these actions tends to diminish the shock, it being absorbed by the spring action instead of being transmitted to the body.

BUICK FOUR-WHEEL BRAKES

Brakes of special Buick design operate on all four wheels of the Buick. They are of the external contracting type. The brake bands operate on brake drums with large bearing surfaces. The braking system is designed to automatically exert slightly greater pressure on the rear brakes. In turning a corner the brake on the outside front wheel automatically releases, permitting the wheel to run free and giving perfect steering control when turning corners with the brakes applied. Both tires and brake bands last longer because the wear is distributed over four tires and four bands instead of two. The increased friction between the tires and the road provided by four-wheel brakes makes it possible to stop a car much more quickly and provides the driver with an added factor of safety.

Fires will disappear from a room if 20 drops of carbolic acid are evaporated from a hot shovel every day.

REO BUILDING NEW CROSS-COUNTRY BUS

Completely equipped in every respect and planned for utmost comfort to the slightest detail, the new Reo Sedan type of cross-country bus, which has just been announced by the Reo Motor Car Company, gives promise of opening up the trail for long distance bus travel, thereby adding another chapter to the history of motor transportation.

Long and low lines and brightly finished in body coloring and trimmings, this new model is the latest addition to the Reo line, a line noted for its completeness and embracing a model to fit every motoring requirement.

The same special bus chassis is used for the new Reo bus that is used in connection with the Pay-Enter type which was announced by the Reo company a few months ago. This chassis, which was especially designed for use in passenger transportation, has proved to be truly suitable for the purpose. The only change is the fact that 32X6 single tires are regular equipment on both front and rear wheels in this latest model whereas dual tires are standard on the Pay-Enter type.

The body of the new DeLuxe Reo Sedan Bus is divided into three compartments: driver's, passengers' and smoking compartment. CHEVROLET CHEAP AUTOMOBILE TO RUN Salesman, professional people, business men, and farmers often prefer a single seated car because of lower operating costs and its convenient facility for carrying merchandise, instruments or luggage in the rear.

Chevrolet Superior Model Roadster is the lowest priced quality automobile meeting their requirements. It costs least for operation and maintenance.

No business or professional man or woman can buy any low-priced car more economical than this quality product.

It saves valuable time, annihilates distance, transports the driver to his destination in comfort and greatly broadens the sphere of his activities.

It makes him independent of railroads and enables him to make the maximum number of calls per day at the least possible expenditure of time and money. His luggage, samples or instruments are always at hand without the bother and expense of packing, shipping, checking or portering.

It costs less to buy and maintain than a horse and buggy, is tireless in service and many times more efficient.

passengers may be carried on the seats. It is not intended that any standards will be carried and provisions have not been made, for them.

ENGINEERS FAVOR CHRYSLER'S SIX

A fact exceptionally gratifying to officials of the Chrysler Motor Corporation is the large number of arm, navy, marine corps and aviator engineering experts who have bought Chrysler Sixes for their personal use.

"This," says J. E. Fields, vice president in charge of sales, "would seem to indicate that these men have the highest regard for the type of engineering that has been built into the car."

Included in the list of Chrysler owners are Rear-Admiral John Keeler Robinson, engineer in chief of the U. S. Navy; Col. C. A. Babcock, U. S. A.; Major L. H. Drennan, U. S. A.; Air Service; Lieut. M. S. Fairchild, U. S. A.; Lieut. Commander W. H. Miller, U. S. N.; M. C. Gregory, U. S. M. C.; Lieut. J. D. Columy, U. S. M. C.; Lieut. J. Plotowski, U. S. A.; Lyman H. Ford, of the Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N. J. and Lieut. Commander C. T. Blackburn, U. S. N., Philadelphia Navy Yard.

Major Frederick H. Martin, in charge of the round-the-world expedition of the army air force until his mishap in Alaska, called attention to the fact that air service men are particularly interested in the Chrysler owing to its new type engineering. Lieut. Lowell H. Smith, acting chief of the round-the-world fliers, has ordered a Chrysler Six for delivery after the completion of the flight.

ALMOST AS MANY KINDS OF SIGNS AS THERE ARE CITIES

Appleton Arterial Stop Signs Are As Effective As Any in State

All the colors of the rainbow and many different geometrical forms are being used by Wisconsin cities in the types of arterial highway signs that warn the motorist to stop. An attempt made two years ago to make all arterial highway signs in the state uniform failed completely.

Appleton, though not one of the first cities to adopt arterial highways, prides itself on the type of signs in use here. They are firmly erected on metal standards, the octagonal plates are of a conspicuous red with the letters bored in and painted in aluminum.

The variations of the signs in 28 other Wisconsin cities listed alphabetically may be seen as follows:

Antigo uses a green shield with red letters. Beaver Dam follows the state highway arterial marking, a white background with black lettering.

Beloit adopted a gray background with red lettering. Chippewa Falls uses a large red disc, two feet in diameter, with white lettering. De Pere uses the shield variety painted red. Eau Claire has a large sign with two words "Arterial Crossing—Stop" in white.

Fond du Lac uses a green background with white lettering on metal standards seven feet high. Green Bay has a red and white sign with big lettering but uses no night-lighting. Kenosha has a green sign. La Crosse employs a yellow sign with black lettering.

Madison uses a pavement sign embedded in the concrete and made of cast iron, rectangular wedge shape, painted orange with black lettering. Marinette uses a green triangle with black lettering. Marshfield has a sign in white with black and red lettering. Menasha has a green and white standard. Menominee has a black and red sign. Merrill has ordered signs but no color has as yet been designated.

Neenah signs are red and black. Oshkosh uses a green background with white lettering the duplicate of the Milwaukee sign. Portage is testing several signs but has decided on none at this time. Racine uses a green and white sign. Sheboygan has adopted a red "Stop" on a white field with a blue border.

WHITE AND GREEN POPULAR
Stevens Point has a green and white stop sign in standards and red mushroom lights on the pavement. Stoughton has a red "Stop" sign. Two Rivers uses a red sign. Watertown has a green background with white lettering. Wausau has a six-foot high sign with green background and white letter. Wisconsin Rapids also employs a green sign with white lettering.

Judging from this survey the Milwaukee sign which consists of a green background with white lettering is the most popular as it is now used by seven cities. However, it is safe to prophesy that the next few years will see all Wisconsin cities enforcing arterial systems marked with some standard "stop" sign.

Schultz Beats Boys But Loses To Girl Spellers

Leon Schultz, graduate of Pioneer school in the town of Osborn, who represented Outagamie-co in the state spelling, arithmetic and writing contests at the state fair this week, finished ahead of all other boys taking part, but fell short of winning first place in the contest. First prize was awarded to Violet Stibbe, of Richland Center, with an average of 91.2 per cent. Leon Schultz was tenth in the list of counties competing. His score was 88.5 per cent. Silver cups were presented by the American legion to Leon Schultz, as the winner of the highest score for boys, and to Violet Stibbe as winner of the highest score for girls. The Richland Center girl also was given a gold medal as a symbol of her victory.

MOSS WILL SPEAK TO KIWANIS CLUB

John H. Moss of Milwaukee, a leader in international Kiwanis activities, will be the speaker at the weekly Kiwanis luncheon Wednesday noon at Conway hotel. He will talk on the ideals of Kiwanis.

Mr. Moss is a trustee of Kiwanis International and was candidate for the presidency at the recent convention in Denver. He is a former governor of Wisconsin district of the club.

Piles

Can't Be Cured from the Outside
External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations. The cause is inside—bad circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it!

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Schlimtz Bros., who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer. adv.

Library Gets Ancient Map Of Three Appleton Villages

A lithographic copy of the first map of Appleton which is nearly 75 years old has been presented by Miss Margaret Grignon of Kaukauna to the Appleton public library.

The map is yellow with age, and an inscription on it carried the date of April 28, 1850, the year Appleton was incorporated as a city. The map itself is older than that for it indicates the location of the county buildings, which is significant, because Outagamie-co was not created by the state legislature until 1851.

It is a draft by John Stephens of the original three village plats of Appleton, Lawesburgh and Grand Chute which grew side by side until they merged to form the city of Appleton. The map will be preserved among the records of the public library as a document of great historic value for this city.

Miss Grignon is a member of the oldest white family of Wisconsin. She is a granddaughter of Augustin Grignon I, the first permanent white settler of Kaukauna, Outagamie-co and the Fox river valley.

WISCONSIN PIONEERS

The Grignon family is prominently identified with Wisconsin pioneer history. Their progenitor was Pierre Grignon who had been a voyageur on Lake Superior at an early date and an independent fur trader at Green Bay before 1763. He married a daughter of Charles de Langlade of French and Indian war fame.

One branch of the Grignon family, that of Hippolyte Grignon, brother of Augustin, were the first white settlers of what is now Appleton. The first mass celebrated in Appleton was said in the old log cabin on the Fox river at the end of Carver-st.

The map presented by Miss Grignon to the public library, while containing much that is recognizable by the present generation, also shows some interesting divergences.

Appleton, Lawesburgh and Grand Chute, the three original towns that later melted together were separated by North Division-st and by Union-st, the latter formerly being known as Division-st.

CHANGE STREET NAMES

At least 22 changes are noted in the names of 55 street names on the map. Oneida-st was once Garrison-st; Superior-st was Brown-st; the name of Pearl-st was recently changed to Oneida-st; Pierce-ave was Pine-st; Story-st was Cedar-st; Perry-st was North-st; Harris-st was Duane-st; Franklin-st was Fisk-st and Menasha-st; Washington-st was Edwards-st and Spain-st; the east part of College-ave was Wisconsin-ave; Water-st was River-st; a part of Lawrence-st was Ninth-st; Spencer-st was Seventh-st; a part of Second-st has lately been changed to Prospect-ave; Smith-st has been name Seventh-st; a part of Prospect-ave was Alton-st; Elm-st was North Division-st; First-st has become Front-st, and what was once Front-st has become obsolete.

The entire community was known as Grand Chute Rapids, according to the inscription on the map. Industries now extinct were situated on the waterpower. At the foot of State-st were a planing mill, chair factory, sash and lath mill and two saw mills; at Pearl-st were a grist mill, and edge tool factory, a planing mill, sash factory and saw mill; a brickyard was located in the vicinity of John-st and South-st. Dams were located at the upper and lower rapids, and a plank bridge crossed the Fox river at Pearl-st. The teamboat landing was at the foot of Pierce-ave.

Lawrence college property then extended from the river to North-st between Union-st and Drew-st. The academy was located in the block bordered by College-ave and Morrison, Durkee and Lawrence-sts.

The old cemetery was at North Division-st between Franklin and Washington-sts. The public square at Locust-st and Third-st was twice as big as it is now. State-st was the common route to Wolf river.

INCREASE PRICE OF BREAD AS WHEAT PRICE GOES UP

The retail price of bread will increase from one to two cents a loaf before Christmas, it transpired at the annual convention of the Wisconsin Association of Master Bakers at Milwaukee, which was attended by several Appleton bakers.

An increase in the price of flour, from $5 to $8, which is the result of advances in wheat prices, is blamed for the prospective rise in the price of bread. This increases the cost of bread about one-half cent a loaf. In other states the size of loaf will be decreased, but in Wisconsin the baker must make a pound or a half-pound loaf. Since he cannot decrease the size, he must increase the price, it is pointed out.

Appleton tourists who have been making occasional trips to Sturgeon Bay will not be able to avoid the detour on highway 78 the rest of this summer for heavy rains have delayed the three mile concrete paving project north of the junction with highway 54. Meanwhile, the alternative route is either through Luxemburg and Algoma or by way of the detour on highway 78 which is along the lower road towards Benderville. The turn back to the regular highway is at the red barn about three miles south of Red Banks resort.

Pump Pennies or Repair Shop Dollars

FOLKS are funny. A wildcat rumor or the imagination of a hungry newspaperman is all it takes to start an economic spasm over the matter of a penny or two on the pump price of motor fuel. At a moment's notice, wheat state governors, Senate committees, Aunt Maria, the corner station man, 'n' everybody, will fairly buzz about it.

But year in and year out, poor fuel can put over its giant dollar wastes and never stir a ruffle of excitement or protest.

Keep your eye on the main issue. Certainly you have a right to be protected against the overcharge of a single cent in the gallon price of your fuel—but remember that gallon price is not the most important factor in the real cost of motor operation.

Fuel that at any price—however cheap—subjects your motor to the ravages of kerosene and free carbon can never be a bargain. The harm reckoned at the repair shop overshadows a dozen fold the trifling amounts involved in price fluctuations.

Wadham's True Gasoline

offers you the most important cost factor that a fuel can have—quality that protects your motor. Regardless of curbside bargaining or legislative pressure, it remains steadfast to its first trust of guarding your motor—keeping it everlastingly free from the expenses caused by undue carbon, by the battering half-explosions and over heat of heavy ends, and by the dangerous dilution of oil by kerosene.

It is all gasoline and nothing else and will be kept so—and this consideration is far more important to you than excitement over the lowest price that poor adulterated fuel can be forced to make at the pump.

MUCH SOCIAL WORK REQUIRED HERE TO SCORE IN CONTEST

Organized Social Effort Will Be Stimulated by $1,000 Prize Control

Appleton's family welfare council will help this city to score in the social welfare department of the better cities contest under auspices of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work. This council is one of the organizations required of each city competing for the $1,000 prize.

Care of the dependent and neglected, the incapable, diseased and the unfortunate is one phase of the contest that provides a liberal score, according to the schedules received by the community welfare committee of the chamber of commerce. Cities that are well organized also are expected to prevent neglect, dependency and crime.

Organized social work probably will be stimulated here as a result of the contest. Education and personal service by trained workers who deal with causes and conditions of the delinquent and less fortunate are stressed. Cities that try to rehabilitate the individual as well as give him relief are awarded a higher standing in the contest.

MISS BRATTON SCORES

An Appleton woman, Miss Frances Bratton, will help judge the social section of the contest. She is now general secretary of the Public Welfare association, Madison, and is on the social welfare committee of standards in this contest.

One trained worker to handle not more than 80 cases a month is required under the family social work scoring schedule. Maintenance of a confidential exchange, care of homeless men, a loan fund and a day nursery all earn points. A board of directors of a social welfare organization, a case council to advise on family problems and public reports of expenditures also are scored. The total possible score is 150 points in this division.

Adequate facilities are necessary for examination of mental cases and a opportunity to educate mentally defective children is required. Mental examination of all adult and juvenile court cases by experts also is set forth. The possible score if all of these are provided is 250 points.

COORDINATE WORK

The contest then turns to careful coordination of social work, a step which Appleton has taken in part. Here a common clearing house for welfare work is needed as well as a confidential exchange so papers may be detected. There should be a council of social agencies uniting various groups to prevent duplication of effort. A community fund also is proposed, with provision for securing money for work of all social agencies, with trained worker as director. This gives a city 60 points. An additional 27 points is possible for having a poor commissioner who keeps proper records of his cases.

Mothers' pensions and state aid to dependents must be made a matter of proper record, local cooperation must be given families thus helped to obtain education for children and employment for those able to work. The manner of investigating and the way the court procedure is conducted also counts. The total score is 113 points.

Juvenile delinquents receive careful attention from welfare workers and organizations in cities which score high under the 170 points given in this section of the contest. In the first place there must be an adequate juvenile court, hearings are to be in private and records kept. Use of mental examinations is stressed and a good score is given where "big brothers or sisters" organizations assist in character building. There must be an adequate probation system, with trained officer. Handling of cases jointly with social work groups is suggested.

ASK PROGRAMS

Provision is to be made for buildings where groups in need of cultural contact may have programs, which include classes in education, art and domestic science, and opportunity for drama, music, dance, lyceum and song. Schoolhouses used for programs during extra hours help the score.

Housing facilities where girls may room at moderate rates in wholesome surroundings and like places for young men are required and work must be done for protection of those who are traveling.

Dependent and neglected children come in for their share of attention. Orphanages, also work to keep child with parents or find suitable home for it, continued interest in unfortunate children and adequate recreation facilities are demanded.

Social service education also is considered important, as the schedule calls for meetings and speakers before various organizations on its work. Interest of schools, clubs, churches and other such bodies in social work is scored both as to its extent locally and interest in state and national groups doing like service.

PROVIDE PYROTOL FOR LAND CLEARING

Agricultural Department Makes Explosive Available to Farmers

A change from sodatol to pyrotol will be made this year in the distribution of war explosives for land clearing purposes in Outagamie-co. A large number of orders for sodatol filling several carloads were filed in this county last year. That type of war explosive will not be available this year. In place of it, the agricultural engineering department of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture will distribute pyrotol, which is slightly more than sodatol, but considerably less than dynamite.

Orders for this explosive will be taken by Robert A. Amundson, county agricultural agent, and forwarded to John Swenhardt, of the College of Agriculture, who is in charge of the distribution. Efforts will be made to obtain the material in carload lots which will reduce the cost of transportation. If not enough orders can be obtained here for a carload, the explosive will be reshipped by local freight or truck at the expense of the purchaser.

To prevent speculation, not over 1,000 pounds of pyrotol will be allotted to one individual in one year. The orders should be for even hundred pound lots. In case the supply is exhausted before the order is received, the money order will be returned. The cost of $7.50 per 100 pounds is for delivery at the car door where a carload is unloaded at a railroad station, which may be at Black Creek, the most central shipping point in the county.

The pyrotol is cartridge and packed in 50-pound boxes ready for immediate use in land clearing, and is distributed at cost of preparation, packing and distribution only. This includes drying, grinding, mixing, carting, cartridge wrappers, paraffin, labor, boxes, box lining, freight and trucking. When the supply is exhausted, it will be impossible to secure an additional supply for land clearing at these prices, it was said.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion or Stomach Trouble CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach," says a well known authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis accompanied by dangerous stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestants that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little hot water and Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia, to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. It soaks up the harmful excess acid much as a sponge or blotting paper might and your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive. adv.

MOONMAKING IS REAL INDUSTRY IN FREE STATE

Making of Poteen Is Subject of Vigorous Protests by Clergy

Dublin.—The manufacture of poteen, or illicit whiskey in the Free State has grown from an occasional adventure into an industry. The loss in revenue is much the least part of the consequent damage. The matter has been the subject of numerous denunciations by the bishops, and many crimes are attributed to the effect of this fiery spirit on young men. But the real extent of the evil has never been so fully set out as in The Irish Statesman, a weekly journal founded by Sir Horace Plunkett with the subscriptions of American friends.

A writer in the current issue explains that the industry has baffled the efforts of the government to suppress it. The profits are widely distributed. Masters trading openly as such sell the materials to local shopkeepers who supply the poteen makers. Railway companies carry tons of corn into the remotest parts of Connaught and every railway official, says the writer, knows that the consignments are for shopkeepers who supply the poteen makers.

"The whole population is aware of this industry, and scarcely one in a hundred will give information regarding the illegal end of it."

The liquor is sold at 75 cents a pint, and is used at wakes and weddings. All night scribes have become common in country districts. The licensing laws do not afford the means of dealing adequately with the traffic, and it is suggested that they be strengthened so as to make the mere possession of poteen an offense liable to imprisonment.

TWO NEW SUSPECTS SOUGHT IN ROBBERY

Fahy Continues to Protest
Charge Is Result of Professional Jealousy

By Associated Press
Chicago.—At least two other persons whose arrest will take place shortly are involved in evidence obtained by postal inspectors who arrested William Fahy, Chicago inspector, now in the Woodstock, Ill., Jail under $50,000 bond on a warrant charging him with complicity in the $2,000,000 Rondout, Ill., mail robbery, according to C. H. Claranahan chief inspector of New York.

He asserted the two suspects are not federal officers but participated in the robbery and division of the loot. Investigators planned further to question William J. Roberts, deputy United States marshal, held in technical custody in his office, for his alleged part in assisting Mrs. Fahy to take a package of papers from her home. She is being sought.

While Fahy is being transferred from the Geneva, Ill., jail Thursday he repeated his assertions that he was the victim of conspiracy prompted by professional jealousy.

FATHER, DAUGHTER FAIL TO ANSWER SPEED CHARGE

Interest is attached to the case of Miss Adrias Martin of Green Bay who was arrested Tuesday by Allen Kaufman, county motorcycle officer for exceeding the speed limits. Miss Martin was ordered into court, but up to Friday noon had failed to make her appearance. Kaufman charges that she was driving at a rate of 50 miles an hour just before her arrest. Her case is similar to that of her father, Attorney John Martin of Green Bay, who was arrested some time ago by Officer Jack Frenz for a like offense. Although the arrest was made several weeks ago, Mr. Martin has failed to appear in court. He was charged with driving 40 miles an hour.

RUSH QUILTS PILLS TO ACCEPT MICHIGAN BERTH

Appleton Will Have Fine Chance To Cop Lead With Ace Gone

Sunday and Monday Tilts Will Have Direct Bearing on Championship Race with Smithmen Doped to Win.

Neenah-Menasha has lost the services of its manager and star hurler, Harry Rush. "Speed" heard a call from Battle Creek, Mich., and has joined the Kellogg club there because an all-year job awaits him in connection with his berth on that team. This will be a sad blow to the Pills whose high standing in State league records was due chiefly to Rush's pitching ability. The fact that the Twin City tribe is due to meet an invasion by the Papermakers Sunday makes the blow the more serious, for Appleton is practically the only club which has beaten the Pills this year.

Furthermore, Sunday's game will do much to decide the championship of the Michigan League. The Papermakers are in second place close on the heels of the Pills and are going strong. The Neenah-Menasha tribe is due to meet the strong Brabys club from Green Bay on Labor day, while Appleton will invade Oshkosh for a tilt on that day. The league leaders therefore are in a precarious position, for both Appleton and Green Bay are strong enough to give them a hard run, and the Papermakers also are doped to win from Oshkosh Monday.

If Smith's hirelings are lucky enough to cop both games and Green Bay defeats the Pills Appleton will lead the present champions by half a game and stands an excellent show of staying in first place. The Sunday contest at Menasha may well be expected to be one of the hardest fought battles left on the Appleton schedule. The Pills will be fighting for life, and added to the intense rivalry between the two clubs is the fact that thus far they are even in the matter of games won and lost, each having defeated the other twice.

ROD AND REEL

VARIETY OF SPINNERS

Many of the bait testers are unaware that different shaped and sized spinners can be used according to conditions of the water just as the different hues lures are used for dark and light days. Take for instance the standard Hildebrandt spinner. The blade of this lure revolves at a medium distance from the shank and can be seen from both front and side. The Idaho with a short, squat blade has an appearance in the water unlike any other spinner and can be seen better from the front and rear while the long blade of the slim Elt spinner is especially enticing for side striking fish, and resembles a small shiner on account of spinning close to the shank. On dull cloudy days the polished brass spinner will be more effective than the nickel and vice versa on bright days.

Many anglers do not understand manipulation of the spinner and load this lure down with a sinker attached to it which is a great detriment to its working effect, logging it and making it inactive. The proper method of weighting a spinner is to weight it about four inches above the blade which allows it to flop around and appear a thing of life, and if the angler plays a lure of this kind properly it will bring more game fins to net than any lure yet devised. The addition of pork strips or

Pick Glenna Collett To Win Golf Tourney

If Providence Girl Is Putting Well She Will Be Extremely Hard to Beat in Championship Event.

You never can tell what a woman will do.

Especially in a golf tournament. Three years ago the national championship looked like a simple, leisurely stroll for Alexa Stirling. She had won the title three times hand running and the bright young writers were calling her the "superwoman of golf."

Along came Marion Hollins, who had been a finalist as far back as 1913 and took Miss Stirling over the bunkered ramparts as pretty as you please. Miss Hollins apparently didn't read the papers. How could she tell Miss Stirling was a superwoman? Year before last a newcomer broke through, upset the dope, and outdistanced the established favorites. This newcomer was Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I. All season her game had glittered and her play throughout the championship was beautiful.

Golf analysts dissected her strokes and pronounced them flawless. "She is better than Miss Stirling ever was," they agreed. "It will be years before she is forced to concede defeat to any woman golfer in this country." GLENNA MEETS DEFEAT Last year Miss Collett went as far as the third round, dethroned Mrs. C. H. SHOWING MR. DEMPSEY AND HIS NOSE IN BEFORE AND AFTER PHASES.

Mr. Jack Dempsey, gentleman of the firsts, romantic idol of the silver sheets, and contributor of deathless passages to the realm of literature, has a new beak.

Perhaps it is more accurate to say Mr. Dempsey has a made-over horn, since the basic foundations of the original structure still remain.

Plastic surgeons have taken the plebian Irish nasal design which Mr. Dempsey has affected since infancy and worked it over into perfectly intriguing Grecian pattern.

Those who knew the champion in his vulgar fighting days may recall that his inhale turned up sharply at the end, much after the manner of a Turkish house slipper. This was all right for glove tossing tournaments, but not for the higher arts.

As Mr. Dempsey himself observed, "Whoever heard of an actor with a retousse nose?"

So it came to pass that the Barrymore of Pistiana submitted his snell to the mercies of the white-coated carvers, with instructions to build the thing over and blazes with the cost.

Dispatches announce the knife artists scored a scientific triumph. They gave the champ a face that only a mother could recognize.

Gone is the old pug nose of prize ring days. In its place appears a chaste, straight bezer, plainly intended more for show than blow.

The boyish bob is expected to make Mr. Dempsey's bugle vastly more presentable for the cinema. What effect it will have on his performances in the ring is a matter of speculation.

In this connection, the immortal lines of the good Marquis of Queensberry are recalled: "Any nose will spread if you pop it right."

Champ 'Drifter' Of Big Leagues Now With Tigers

After 11 years of flitting in and out of the major leagues, Frank O'Rourke has a chance to realize a cherished ambition, playing on a pennant-winning ball club.

At present Frank O'Rourke is holding down second base for the Detroit Tigers and doing a mighty fine job of it. Certainly the Tigers figure a strong pennant possibility in the American League.

"If I had had O'Rourke playing second since the start of the season we would now be out in front by a comfortable margin," is the compliment Manager Cobb pays O'Rourke.

For several years, and particularly since the opening of the 1924 season, second base has been the one weak spot in the Detroit infield. May have been tried at that position and found wanting. O'Rourke seems to fill the bill.

Back in 1913 O'Rourke received his first big league trial as a member of the Boston Braves. He came up as a shortstop and has played that position most of his career.

A rather weak throwing arm has somewhat handicapped O'Rourke in his shortstop play, but it in no way affects his work at second, where the throw is shorter.

Since 1913 O'Rourke has been picked up by five major league clubs—Washington, Brooklyn, Cincinnati and Detroit, in addition to the Braves. When not playing bigtime baseball he filled in with the better minor leagues.

This year just at a time when Detroit was sadly in need of a second sacker, Manager Dan Howley of Toronto, who formerly assisted Ty Cobb at Detroit, sent on O'Rourke.

While a player of much natural ability, O'Rourke's long experience and his ability to think, has greatly helped to steady the Tiger infield. When he gets the ball he knows what to do with it.

It is a rather strange coincidence that O'Rourke's previous engagement in the American League was as a member of the Washington club, a strong rival of Detroit for pennant honors.

O'Rourke is no youngster. He admits 24 years of age and ball players are fussy on that score. He also frankly admits that he is getting the biggest chance of his career at a time he figured he was through as a big leaguer.

Senators Lead League After Pounding Yanks For 8 Runs In Eighth

Babe Ruth Break Homerun Record When He Poles Two, Second of Which Is His Forty-second.

The Washington Senators are on top at last leading their league a half game to the fore of the Yanks who dropped to second place, going down to defeat in the first game of the series with the Harris outfit, 11 to 6.

With the Yanks leading, 6 to 3, at the beginning of the eighth inning, victory seemed assured for the "hosts of Huggins" and then came the barrage. Two Washington batters hit safely and Herb Pennock was called from the hill by the midget manager. Gaston was rushed to the rescue but to no avail. Peckinpaugh, next man up, grounded out to Scott and one Washington run scored. Leibold batted for Russell and walked. McNeely smacked one to rightfield, filling the bases. Harris slammed one at Dugan who fumbled, and another run scored. With the bases still crowded, and the tying run on third, Huggins replaced Gaston with Sam Jones, who made it two but when Leibold was forced at the plate. At this point it looked brighter for the Yanks but only for a moment, for Goslin, the next man up, lifted one to Witt that Whitely lost in the sun, three runs scoring. Judge, Bluege, Ruel and Peck all hit safely in order and three more Washington runners crossed the pan. The inning ended when Mameaux, who had by this time replaced Jones, retired Leibold for the final out. Marberry, who went in to pitch the last two innings for the Senators turned back the Yanks without a score.

Babe Ruth hit two homers in the game and passed his 1923 homerun record when he hit his forty second homer of the season in the seventh inning.

The Red Sox scored a double victory over the Athletics in Boston, winning the first game, 6 to 3, and the second, 8 to 7. Chicago and Cleveland, the Indians winning the first, 7 to 0, but after ten hard fought innings, losing the second, 7 to 6.

Pittsburg dropped another half notch in the older organization when the Reds knocked Cooper out of the box and won, 5 to 4. The Pirates are now only five games to the rear of the Giants who were not scheduled to play Thursday. Playing on their own ball field, the Cubs took two games from the Cards, winning the opener 5 to 2, and the finisher, 8 to 3. Roger Hornsby, leading batter of the Majors, got four hits in seven times at bat, thereby increasing his season's batting average.

The Phillies shoved the Braves deeper into the cellar when they annexed two games from the Boston club, 1 to 0, and 9 to 3.

Youngsters Give New Life To Pirate Club

Cuyler, Yde, Wright and Others Put Pittsburgh in Thick of Hot Race for National Pennant.

Look out for the Pittsburgh Pirates. Five recruits have transformed the club into a pennant contender.

Manager Bill McKeechle may not win the National League bunting with his Buccaneers, but he is going to make the race decidedly interesting.

At present the New York Giants are groggy. The recent four defeats at the hands of Pittsburgh is the cause.

In the spring, prior to the opening of the season, in doping out the chances of the National League clubs, I leaned strongly to the Pirates. I picked Pittsburgh as the one team with a great chance to make trouble for the Giants.

During the first two months of the race the play of the Pirates made me feel as if I didn't know a single thing about baseball. When the pitchers worked well the batters didn't hit and vice versa. The club lacked consistency, simply couldn't win with regularity.

Perhaps too late, the Pirates have struck their gait, are playing the fine ball the team is capable of, and pressing New York hard, despite the big lead gained by the Giants while Pittsburgh was floundering about.

FIVE CLASSY RECRUITS
In the fine showing of the Pittsburgh club the work of five recruits stand out prominently. Usually if a club is fortunate enough to have a couple of recruits develop into regulars it is satisfied. Five recruits Wright, Cuyler, Yde, Moore and Kremer, have delivered for the Pirates.

While the great hitting of Outfielder Cuyler, the fine work of Moore when substituting for Traynor at third, and the excellent pitching of Yde and Kremer, have helped greatly, the acquisition of Shortstop Wright has done much to make the Pirates a strong pennant possibility.

Seldom has a club, lacking a brilliant shortstop, won a pennant. A fast-voicing pair around second base is most essential to success. Wright has made good the fine things said about his fielding ability. He has exceeded expectations at the bat. Many of his biggest boosters had a fear for his hitting.

Wright supplanted Maranville at short. What to do with Maranville was a problem. He was shifted to second base and has fitted in perfectly. No doubt Wright has profited greatly from having so able a head as Maranville playing alongside of him.

MOORE STARS AS SUB
While Moore hasn't enjoyed so strong a spotlight as the other four rookies, his work has been no less meritorious.

When substituting for Third Baseman "Pie" Traynor, Moore played great ball and hit a la Rogers Hornsby. In 35 games played he has an average close to 400.

If the Pirates pull the unexpected and nose out the Giants, the major portion of the credit for the win must go to the five rookies Wright, Cuyler, Yde, Moore and Kremer.

While the veteran stars of the club have performed nobly, it must be conceded the new men have added the strength that has made the Pirates a potential winner.

A PAGE OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Avoid Tried Feet By Care In Exercise

New York—A photograph of your face, without retouching, always brings out your freckles, wrinkles and irregularities of feature.

But it isn't nearly so revealing to the trained eye as a pedographic impression of your foot, which tells every ailment you have ever had or are likely to have with your feet.

Dr. William Scholl of New York, who invented the pedograph—a machine for taking a photographic impression of the feet—believed that feet should be examined regularly the same as teeth and preventive measure is taken before flat foot and broken arch actually develop.

"Feet that are normal do not tire or ache from ordinary standing or walking," he advises, "and if they do, it is a sign either that your shoes are wrong or that you have some foot trouble."

WOMEN WORSE OFF

"Feet give more trouble in the summer than the winter, and usually women have more difficulty from them than men."

Here are some of his precautions:

"Don't wear extremely high or extremely pointed shoes.

"If you have been wearing high-heeled shoes and want to change to low, make the change gradually.

"Don't wear shoes that are too tight. They shut off the circulation and cramp the muscles.

"Don't wear stockings that are too short. They are apt to cause deformity of the feet as short shoes.

"Do not use corrosive acids to remove corns or callouses. They don't remove the cause and they often eat into the surrounding tissues with painful results."

SIMPLE EXERCISES

Here are some simple exercises that he says will strengthen the arches and exercise the toes:

"Stand with the feet parallel—rise on tiptoes and return slowly. This relieves the rigidity in the arch and ball of the foot.

"Place the leg over the knee and extend the toes downward, then describe a circular motion toward the inside.

"Raise the foot from the floor and straighten it as far as possible, endeavoring to make a straight line with the foot and leg.

"Exercise the toes by bending them downward against the sole, as though you were trying to pick up some object with your foot instead of your hand.

"Extend the leg and flex the foot toward you as far as possible to stretch the muscles and tendons."

"Stand in your bare feet on the floor and raise the toes off the floor as far as you can toward the top of the foot, and then return them slowly to the floor.

"Stand on a block of wood or a table with the toes over the edge and bend the toes downward as far as possible. This is usually painful at first but, gradually the feet become accustomed to it."

FASHION HINTS

CHIN COLLARS

Detachable chin collars consisting of a narrow band of fur edged with crepe de chine or the material of the frock are shown for fall dresses.

UNBELTED

Unbelted gowns continue to be the rage in Paris and they are very, very short at the present time.

BLACK AND GOLD

Black and gold combinations are featured in fall millinery. Gold leather applied on black felt is very novel.

TIGER TRIMMING

Tiger and leopard are to be used extensively for handbags and trimmings of cloth dresses and coats.

RED FOX

Red fox used on black materials is an innovation this season and the effect is much more stunning than it sounds.

SATIN GOWNS

Black satin gowns of the straight, tube variety are embellished with colorful embroidery in chenille.

How To Make Homes Cozy

USE WALL LIGHTS MOST OFTEN

The wall lights of a living room, or any other room, by themselves make for a better, more homelike atmosphere than any other combination. Center ceiling lights should be used only when more light, rather than atmosphere, is needed—as for large gatherings, dances at home, or such.

Her Bare Legs Seem To Cause Less Excitement Than A Hole In Socks

New York—Somebody gave a psychologist and let him examine this: Why is it that a "runner" in a girl's silk stocking immediately draws everyone's attention to her legs?

And why is it, after she has removed her stockings, that few notice her?

Pert Kelton, vaudeville comedienne, was strolling through Central Park last spring when one of her stockings developed one of those annoying "Jacob's ladders."

Miss Kelton, conscious of the pedestrians' stares, noticed the accident and forthwith removed her hose.

"Maybe they'll stare harder than ever," she thought, "but I'll feel more at ease barelegged than with holey hose."

But it seems that the psychology of your scurrying pedestrian is such that he sees only that which he is accustomed to see.

PASSES ON

He sees a young lady in a pink dress. The young lady has bare legs. The pedestrian is accustomed to seeing young ladies in flesh-colored hose. His mind assumes that the manufacturers of flesh-colored hose performed another miracle, and skips on to the next pair of legs.

The cool breezes of springtime, the saving of vulgar dollars spent for stockings, combined to decide Miss Kelton to wear no more hose.

So she has rolled her stockings into the discard. Ever since that memorable spring day she has gone barelegged, with her feet encased in toe-revealing white leather sandals.

NO FLURRY

She walks through crowded streets and creates no flurry at all. Pedestrians, she says, are more apt to notice her lack of stockings after she has passed them and they can scan the back of her ankle, where the motion of her leather sandal reveals that flesh, and not silk, is beneath.

Miss Kelton believes that her idea may be copied by girls throughout the United States. Didn't Greek and Roman maidens, some centuries ago, walk through Rome and Athens in just this style of footgear? And doesn't history repeat itself?

Cleopatra wore sandals, and no stockings. And Cleo in her day was no back number.

World League For America Is Certain

London—Don't whisper it to Henry Cabot Lodge and other "die-hard" senators, but America is firmly in a League of Nations.

And we're pledged not to war, nor increased armaments, nor entangling alliances, but to things like sisterly love, mutual helpfulness, protection for the weak, reverence for the aged, first aid to the sick.

This particular League of Nations was the first world camp of the Girl Guides of the Globe, Sir Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scouts movement and his wife, Lady Baden-Powell, took an active part in it.

The place for the camp was an ideal English scene—a corner of famous New Forest. Here, under great oaks, oaks, beeches and chestnuts, white bell tents and little green ridge tents were put up to accommodate the 1200 girls gathered from the four corners of the world.

Immediately in front of them stood the old English mansion given to the British Girl Guide movement on the occasion of the wedding of Princess Mary, who is president of the whole British movement.

BUSY DAY

The busy day for the delegates began at 7 o'clock, which was roll-out-of-the-bunk time. At 8:30 breakfast, prepared at open camp fires by the patrols, was ready for the hungry legion.

The girls were busy cleaning up camp until 10:15. Then until 1 o'clock, instructions in various forms of guldery were given. Luncheon was served at 1.

From 2 to 3 o'clock the girls were ordered to keep quiet and rest. The balance of the afternoon was given to drills and display for the benefit of visitors. Supper came at 7:30. There followed a pleasant hour around the camp fires, followed by lights out and "beddo."

CHOOSE FOOD YOURSELF

Choose all perishable articles like tomatoes, lettuce, and berries yourself. If you are merely going to follow an order off to a clerk, you might quite as well do it by telephone as to go in person.

Luncheon Is Dainty Meal In Summer

Cottage-Cheese Loaf—One pound cottage or cream cheese, two tablespoons cream, one tablespoon each of minced olives, pimento-pulp and chopped nut-meats. Season cheese to taste and mash with cream to a smooth paste; dip small rectangular mold in cold water and line with waxed paper pack cheese in three layers, using olives, pimento and nut-meats as alternate filling, having top layer cheese; chill. Cut in slices crosswise, unmold on lettuce or oress and serve with French dressing and crackers or thin bread-and-butter sandwiches.

Tomato Cheese Grill—Eight thick slices bread, eight medium slices cheese, eight slices ripe tomato, eight narrow thin strips bacon, mayonnaise dressing. Trim bread, and toast to light brown on one side only. On the untoasted upper side lay slice of cheese, spreading thickly with salad dressing to which a little mustard has been added. Then lay on tomato, and top with bacon strip. Place in oven under broiler and grill for about six minutes or until cheese melts and the bacon is crisp. Serve and eat at once.

Cheese Roast—Two cups cooked beanpulp, two cups fine sifted bread-crumbs, one egg, one-half pound grated American cheese, one tablespoon butter or substitute, one onion minced, salt and pepper. Rub bean pulp through a sieve, add crumbs, beaten egg, grated cheese and onions cooked in butter or substitute. Combine all ingredients thoroughly, shape into roll, brush in melted butter or substitute and sprinkle with breadcrumbs. Bake in a moderate oven until brown and serve with hot tomato sauce.

Fresh-Fruit Ice-Cream—Prepare the fruit by slicing or cutting into half-inch dice. Large berries may be cut in halves. Small berries do not require cutting. Sprinkle with sugar and set aside for an hour. Then press through a coarse sieve and stir into vanilla ice-cream when the cream is frozen to a mush. Complete the freezing.

If seed fruits, such as currants, are used, strain through a fine sieve or a piece of cheese-cloth and use the juice only. In this case the juice may be put into the freezer with the cream and need not be reserved to add to the half-frozen mixture as when the pulp is used.—From the Designer Magazine.

Dame Fashion Caters To Flat, Boyish Figure

Fashion these days simply assumes that one has a flat, boyish figure, or at least so it would seem from the decided preference she shows for narrow straight-line dresses and coats. Of course there's the bouffant mode, but even that is favored for the youthful figure of the debutante age. However, the woman of more mature lines may choose one of the softly draped modes and still keep to straight lines. Tunes, too, cling closely enough to be within the fashionable silhouette.

The new beltless dress observes no waistline; while other one-piece and bodice styles, which are less daring, are decidedly low-waisted. With one-piece sport frocks a narrow string belt of self-material is frequently worn resting on the hips. For the heavier figure this is much more becoming and slenderizing in effect than a beltless model.

Now a word about costume accessories. Frocks are sleeveless altogether or almost, and on most occasions we go gloveless. Gloves when they are worn are short ones of the pull-on type finished with a frill or made with a flared cuff section. And how unwilling we are to part with the close-fitting cloche hat, though a larger hat is very becoming and attractive with the more dressy summer frocks. It may, however, be close-fitting and practically brimless at the back—a concession on the part of Dame Fashion to the majority who are bobbed. Which reminds me of an oft asked question: "Is bobbed hair here to stay?" As far as one can see or say right now, it evidently is.—By Anne Harrison Black in The Delineator Magazine.

New Lady Of Shalott Sees Knights Pass

New York—Romance is not dead. A spinster of 45, retiring in the presence of men, lives in a picturesque nook in Westchester county, a short car ride from the bustle of New York.

She has the idealistic, romantic view of "life of an adolescent girl."

For years, I am told, she has clung to the outer fringes of life. The nearest she has come to entering the abounding places of the sophisticated life she sees from a distance, is the time she sold some hand-beaded bags to a shopkeeper in Greenwich Village.

Independently wealthy, this naive maiden of middle age is not without personal charm.

Beside her home, on a rolling lawn, she has had erected a tower soaring many feet above the top of her house. Much of her time is spent here. From its glass-encased cupola the gay lights of giddy Broadway are visible at night.

Men with waxed mustaches, wearing perfect-fitting riding uniforms, haven't past on spirited horses. They are the gallants of today.

There is little hope but that she lives, in thought at least, in the medieval days of kings and fairy princes, hoping that one of the chameleons who ride past her castle, will awaken her from romantic dreamings.

It is in direct contrast to the aggressive coquetry of today's maidens.

TELEPHONE FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT

I want to speak to Mrs. Prescott. This is she, Jack. I didn't recognize your voice. Oh, I didn't. I have just had a telephone message from Syd, and he says he's coming up very soon, and while he will stay at the Country Club he will expect you to cheer up his convalescence. Great Scott, Jack, everything comes at once, I've had a telegram from your mother saying she'll visit us tomorrow, and a wireless from my mother asking us to be in New York on Friday to meet them, as they dock on that day. Now what are we going to do?

It is rather crowding the mourners, isn't it? How long do you think your mother will want to stay in New York?

Three or four days, I know they'll be anxious to get home as Alice is going to be married very soon.

Well, we can easily put off old Syd for that length of time, but mother won't be so easy. I fancy. She always expects that, like royalty, her suggestions must always be treated as commands. Suppose you go, my dear, to see your mother and let me stay home. I really need to do that, anyway, because I was so long with Syd that my business is in rather a mixup.

Oh, I hate to do that, dear. I think it would be a good thing for you, and if I were you I wouldn't even take little Jack with me. He'll be a great company for mother, and she'd imagine you were doing it exactly for her sake. I am quite sure you would like to go to New York and show that flapper sister of yours that you are still young and more beautiful than she.

You needn't feel called upon to compliment me, dear, at the expense of my sister. But I would like to go to New York, and I think it would be all right to leave you and little Jack home alone. I think I'll do it. Of course Sarah is better able to take care of the baby than I am. She knows more about it, and I am quite sure she loves him quite as much as I do, so far as she is concerned it will be all right. You don't think your mother will think I am perfectly heartless, do you?

Probably, but you needn't care for that. If I think it's all right, and you think it's all right, we're the only ones to be consulted.

Jack, you're a dear. I'm glad you think so, Leslie, but I'm very far from being one most of the time. I'm afraid I wasn't very kind to you this morning.

Oh, I've forgotten all that. I guess the good God put something into the souls of women that he left out of those of men, dear. The ranks of them were very forgiving, and very forgetful of all our little meannesses. I'm coming home very soon now and I hope dinner will be ready when I get there, for I haven't had any lunch.

Then I'll say goodbye and see that everything is ready.

Adventures Of The Twins

A VISIT TO THE CROCODILES
"Let's go and visit Crinkle Crocodile next," said Weeny, the elephant, to Nancy and Nick.

"All right," said Nick. "I'm ready."

"So am I," said Nancy.

So Weeny lifted them both up onto his back and away he trotted.

"Where does Crinkle live?" asked Nick.

good time then," said Nick, who liked to be doing things. "Oh, you never can tell," said Weeny, trotting along in high good humor.

"Does Crinkle Crocodile live here?" he asked of a big pink bird standing in some water. The big pink bird, with a sort of loop-the-loop neck and a shoe-button for a bill, stood on one leg and then on the other leg and looked them all over.

"I don't know," he said. "I don't know him even. What does he look like?"

"He's pointed at both ends, and as flat as a mattress, and he has teeth at one of his ends," said Weeny. "And he has eyeballs as big as teacups and they stick out of his head."

"Oh, hum!" said the pink bird, straightening out his loop-the-loop neck. "Is he marked all over in squares like a pan of fudge?"

"That's the very same person!" said Weeny quickly.

"Well, I don't know where he lives," said the pink bird, walking to the other end of the rock he was standing on. "What do you want to know for?"

"We've come to spend our vacation with him," said Weeny. "These are my friends, Nancy and Nick, Mister—"

"Mister Flamingo," finished the bird.

But just as he spoke Mister Flamingo suddenly disappeared from view. For a very good reason. The rock he stood on had completely disappeared, too.

Then he appeared again above water, but nearly drowned. And squawking and splashing he reached the shore.

"Ha, ha, ha!" cried a voice. "I knew that would happen. I've been waiting for it for half an hour."

And then looking around, Nancy and Nick saw a stork.

"Well, what's so funny?" asked Weeny kind of cross like, because he didn't understand what the joke was.

"That silly flamingo doesn't know anything but fish," laughed the stork. "No wonder he got a good dousing! He was standing right on Crinkle Crocodile's back and never knew it!"

"My goodness!" cried Weeny anxiously. "Do you s'pose Crinkle heard what we said about him?"

"Yes, sir, I heard every word," said Crinkle, suddenly bobbing up to the top of the water again. "And thank you every so much. I never knew I was so good looking. I told me you were here and she's coming to ask you to stay a week. Here she is now."

Just then Mrs. Crocodile appeared, smiling from ear to ear—where her ears should have been.

"Crinkle says you have come to pay us a visit," she said. "I just got my best bedroom fixed up and I'll be most happy to have you."

But her eye suddenly beheld Weeny's satchel, which, my dears, was made out of alligator skin. And everybody knows that alligators and crocodiles are second cousins.

"Dear me!" cried Mrs. Crocodile. "How do I know that if I take you in you'll not be carrying your clothes around in my skin next year. Come, Crinkle. We must be going. When I come to think of it, my best bedroom isn't quite in order after all. Goodbye, everybody."

BAHAMANS WOULD EXTEND RUM TRADE BY DISTILLING RYE

Prohibition in U. S. Enables Neighboring Colonies to Wipe Out Debts

By Associated Press
Washington—The fluctuations of the financial fortunes of the governments of neighboring British colonies, for instance of the Bahama Islands, lifted from debt to prosperity since the United States went dry, and to the Bahama Islands, which have won from the Bahamas much profitable business in exporting liquor to the American coast, is being watched with interest by the prohibition enforcement officers here of the government. Bermuda now has a handsome surplus in its treasury.

The latest development in the Bahamas, a move to start a distillery to manufacture American rye whiskey, all stocks of which, as far as the bootlegging business is concerned, are practically exhausted, has come to the attention of prohibition officers. In the Bahama assembly W. K. Moore recently moved the appointment of a select committee to enquire into and report on the working of the spirits and beer manufacturers' act of 1920. Speaking to the motion, Mr. Moore told his fellow legislators that opportunities were coming to their island. The Bahamas, he declared, had encouraged the liquor traffic, but there was no American rye whiskey available, the enormous supplies exported from the United States to these islands before prohibition having been exhausted by the bootlegging business in the four years since then.

Persons interested in the distillery, Mr. Moore stated, believed the manufacture of rye whiskey and its export to the American coast would be the means of resuscitating the islands' rum running trade and add to Bahama's revenues, now at low ebb because much of the rum running business was being conducted from Bermuda. A committee of seven members was appointed to report on the working of the spirits and beer manufacturers' act.

Speaking of the proposed rye whiskey distillery, a Bahama newspaper remarks that if the Bahamas can supply the unsatisfied demand for rye whiskey, the colony may once again have a monopoly and attract business with a revenue of $3 for each proof gallon distilled. Also it may be able to insist that buyers take Scotch along with the rye. If this happens the paper suggests that the duty on imported whiskeys be raised to $5 again, and kept there.

A year ago the tariff on liquors was reduced from $5 to $3 a case in order to stop the decline in the traffic. Through the reduction it is claimed the colony lost more than $500,000 in revenue. A proposal now before the legislature calls for a further reduction to $1 a case.

L. W. Young, member of the assembly and one of those strongly favoring reduction of the duties, said that when the members of the House realized how much the liquor business had changed the internal affairs of the colony, civic, social and almost religious, it was time they should consider very seriously how they would

MEMORIAL TO HARDING IN WHEAT FIELD

A year ago while on his way to San Francisco where he died, President Warren G. Harding turned "dirt farmer" one day at Hutchinson, Kas., and shocked wheat. On the spot where the late president handled his last bundle of wheat has been erected a monument (upper), paid for by contributions from school children. Elizabeth Humphries (lower right) then 11, recipient of a kiss from the chief executive during his visit, unveiled the monument. In the lower left Harding is shown as a "dirt farmer" on the spot.

dispose of the question. Not only had there been an increase in the number of employees and salaries in the colony's civil establishment, but huge sums of money had been spent upon public improvements and utilities, making commitments that were going to involve huge expenditure for many years to come.

In Bermuda the legislature has been debating the question of what to do with a tidy surplus resulting from the liquor traffic. Members of the assembly have cautioned against excessive expenditures and mounting expenses because they profess to foresee a curtailment of the colony's revenues from the liquor traffic. A report to the assembly recently indicated that had it not been for the heavy receipts from liquor import duties, the colony, during the last fiscal year, would have faced a deficit.

TRIBAL REVERENCE SAVES BONES OF HAWAII CHIEFS

Honolulu—The wheels of progress were halted here recently while enforced homage was paid by workmen to the memory of an all but forgotten chieftain of Hawaii, and the desecration of his ashes was rendered impossible.

In the path of a dredger which has been constructing a drainage canal there stood a house inhabited by an old Hawaiian and his wife. They were warned to vacate as the dredger approached their small holding.

They refused to leave. After several days of argument it was found that their refusal was based upon the fact that their house was on an old burial ground and that the bones of a great chief and a dozen of his relatives were underground.

The old people would not leave the spot until they had seen the removal of the bones of the "alii" and his relatives, and their re-interment in some more peaceful spot. The board of health was consulted. A permit to dig up the bones was granted. An undertaker removed the remains from the earth, and the dredger continued on its way through the ancient cemetery.

DIGGER INDIAN ENTERS OBLIVION

By Associated Press
Long, Calif.—The Digger Indian has gone. He has been killed by the Indians themselves. The Digger Indian was burned at the stake while he was jeered and mocked by 600 of his fellows at the annual "cry" of the Mewuks near here recently. The burning was in effigy while a picked band in full regalia did a war dance about the victim.

The burning, while typifying, according to the Indian allegory, the culmination of a long hunt for an enemy, actually marked the abandonment of the name Digger Indian by all Indian tribes in California. The Mewuks were the last to gain their tribal designation. They were once called Diggers.

Indians say the name Digger first made its appearance in Utah. It was said to have been first used by whites on their way to California because of the Indian custom of digging for roots. Then, as the whites continued their westward migration, the settlers continued to use the appellation.

The Digger in Indian allegory came from Utah to Nevada, then to the Plutes of Pit River, then to Modoc county, Shasta county, Humboldt county and down into the south. Spurned by every tribe, he became an outcast and sought shelter in the territory of the Mewuks. Here he remained hidden, refusing to leave, until his recent capture and death at the stake.

The annual "cry" of the Mewuks held in honor of the dead. Indians from all parts of the state attend. It is a time of ceremony, feasting and merrymaking.

Playing for Profit

There is real money in sports even if we are not professionals. Folks who take time to enjoy some form of sport usually are much better off for in the recreation it gives them, more than pays for the time it takes.

So With Better Meat

Folks who buy Better Meat and pay a few cents more a pound for it, usually find the satisfaction that they get from it worth much more than the small additional cost.

Whims or Babies, Which?

By C. W. ESMOND

Shall we cherish our whims, our prejudices, our inherited notions or shall we cherish our babies?

Let me illustrate.

Said a mother to me recently: "No,
the milk I get isn't pasteurized or certified. It's milk we've been taking for years from the same man and I hate to hurt him by changing. . . . No, I suppose it isn't as safe and wholesome as milk from a modern dairy but the milk man would take on terribly if we quit him.

The milk man was first; the welfare of the children was second with her.

Another one said to me: "We do like that cowy taste in milk, just like we used to get it on the farm. Pasteurized milk tastes different. . . . Yes, I know it must be safe and wholesome and I don't suppose we ought to take chances but we just can't bring ourselves to get used to it."

A pleased palate first; children's health and safety second.

Said a doctor who specializes in infant feeding: "I always prescribe raw milk for the babies under my care but I insist that the mother shall boil the milk before feeding it to the baby. For the older children and adults I advise raw milk because pasteurizing reduces the vitamins content. . . . Yes, I know the vitamins can be added by fruit juices and green vegetables and I know that typhoid, tuberculosis and other diseases are spread by raw milk but I believe we should prevent the spread of disease by keeping the raw milk free from germs."

In the meantime, while a few generations of scientists are seeking for a way to guarantee to prevent the entrance of germs into milk he would presumably ignore the adequate protection of pasteurization and let human beings go on suffering and dying in the interest of his pet theory that milk should be used just as it comes from the cow, a theory which he abandons when the safety of his own cases are concerned.

Is human life and health so cheap that we should unthinkingly sacrifice it for the sake of pet theories or pleased palates or old friendships?

What worlds of theories or taste prejudices or old business relationships can weigh in the scale against one infant life?
Why so blindly cling to old fetishes when across the sky are emblazoned, not theories, but facts like these: The infant death rate in cities like New York, Toronto, Chicago and others has been cut in two in the decade following the enforcement of modern health measures, including the careful inspection and pasteurization of milk?

Why should mothers agonize to bring children into the world and then sacrifice them on the altar of Indifference and Ignorance?

Los Angeles Chief Reports Conditions to Commission to Effect Changes

Los Angeles — Deeper criminals roam throughout the nation without fear of apprehension; offenders are not convicted; vice is rampant; defective traffic control is causing tremendous loss of life and is retarding industrial growth, said Chief of Police August Vollmer in a report made to the Police Commission of Los Angeles.

The purpose of the report, Vollmer said, "is to point out the deficiencies of the present plan of recruiting and organization of police departments and to offer such suggestions as will ultimately operate materially to strengthen the department organization."

Despite the importance, intricacy and difficulty of the police problem in all large cities, the chief said, "no scientific study of the subject has been made by officials or academicians. Consequently, police departments have lagged considerably in the progressive march of civilization." He refers to present police organizations as "archaic."

"An unfit policeman weakens the moral fiber of his associates and destroys public confidence in the department. The organization suffers and society pays the bill when policemen are dishonest, brutal, stupid, or physically or temperamentally unsuited. In fact, harshness, cruelty, arbitrariness and unnecessary exercise of police power, produce crime, anarchy and kindred social and political ills."

"Our records show that even mentally unstable men have been appointed policemen and their condition has not been recognized by commanding officers until they have killed some innocent person, or have committed some heinous offense."

The salient points of Chief Vollmer's recommendations for more efficient conduct of the department are:

- (1) The establishment of higher standards for educational, mental, moral and physical requirements.
- (2) Placement of recruits under the observation of a medico-psychologist during their training period.
- (3) Police authority should be withheld from every policeman until he has proved by his conduct and knowledge that he is capable of discharging the duties of his office.
- (4) Universities should be petitioned to provide preparatory and promotional courses for policemen.
- (5) Creation of a crime-prevention division and appointment of a trained criminologist to conduct the activities of the division.
- (6) Establishment of a merit system.

HENRY'S CHOICE?

Invitation of Prince Henry of England to be a house guest of the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch, Scotland, has given rise to rumors of a forthcoming engagement to the beautiful Lady Mary Scott, their daughter.

BRITISH MINES KILL FIVE DAILY

London—Herbert Smith, president of the Miners Federation, gave some statistics regarding fatalities in the coal mines of Britain, little known to the average person, in his opening speech at the miners' wage inquiry.

In 1923, he said, 212,256 men were disabled for more than seven days, and in addition 1,297 lives were lost. These figures meant that every working day more than five persons were killed. Every 215,000 tons of coal raised was stained with one man's blood. Every working day 850 men were injured.

"If the victims of accidents in the mines," Mr. Smith continued, "were marshalled in one procession, four men in a rank and each rank one and a half yards apart, they would have a procession of 45 miles. Every 15 yards of that tragic march they would have an ambulance containing a man who was seriously injured and every 61 yards a hearse. This is part of the miner's wages, part of the price he pays in the struggle with natural forces that people may have coal and he and his family bread."

HIGH INTEREST AND SMALL CREDITS HIT GERMAN BUSINESS

Rates on Loans Under Present Conditions as High As 3 Per cent Monthly

By Associated Press

Berlin—Interest rates in Germany under the present uncertain financial condition vary from 2 to 3 per cent monthly. Further-more the amount of credit available for manufacturers and agriculturists is greatly limited by the restricted circulation of rentenmarks, which must be kept low to prevent the rentenmark from collapsing as did the paper mark.

So all in all the German manufacturer, farmer or merchant who is in need of a loan to carry on his operations, finds himself in great difficulty.

Few manufacturers can purchase raw materials, make them up, market and collect on the product in less than two months. Money borrowed for such an operation adds tremendously to the cost. Merchants everywhere are marking up their stocks and making the public bear the burden, even when the stocks placed on a solid basis.

The shoe industry in Germany is especially handicapped by the high interest rates. During the period when the paper mark was making its spectacular fall, dealers stocked up with shoes at very low prices. Warehouses were filled with them and the markets were glutted. Consequently the manufacturers had to shut down. Now there is a demand for reasonable shoes of late style to freshen up the accumulated stocks of shoe dealers, but money is so dear that manufacturers cannot finance their operations.

Interest rates, high taxes and uncertainty of the financial situation are advanced by merchants as the reasons for the extremely high prices asked for almost all manufactured articles in Germany. Dr. Schacht, president of the Reichsbank and directors of currency, fully realizes the great handicap imposed on industries by the strict limitation of credits. But he says the rentenmark cannot be kept stable if credits are not carefully restricted, and he believes the republic as a whole will do better with stable money and restricted credits than it would with a falling currency.

LEADING LADY STRIKES

Berlin — The devoted admirers of Frau Emmy Shaw, the successful Mme. Pompadour now playing in Dresden, waited in vain recently for the curtain to rise on the second act.

The lady had in fact suddenly struck for higher wages. The manager appeared before the curtain and made apologetic excuses. But the audience sided with the actress, and hissed.

WOMEN CAMPAIGN TO PRESERVE FUR BEARING ANIMALS

American Blue Cross Society Would Prevent Needless Destruction

New York—A campaign to restrict the power of Dame Fashion, who for "mere decoration compels the extermination of whole species of fur-bearing animals," was launched some months ago by the American Blue Cross society with headquarters at Springfield, Mass., and the New York Women's League for Animals.

Underskirts of monkey fur, fans of ermine tails and lace, the parasol which when closed appears to be a bunch of folded ermine with an ornament of tortoise shell that represents the kitten's nose, are listed by the societies as bizarre fads which are causing needless destruction and cruelty. The Blue Cross campaign against the summer fur craze a year ago was effective, Miss Maud Phillips of Springfield, president of the society, said, but the fashion of wearing furs for mere decoration has so increased "that fur is being out and handled as if it were fabric and not God-given skin of an animal."

Novelties like the ermine cape, described as having a "wide rippling circular flounce that begins at the neckline and runs all the way around a train-like back," or white fox fur

HOMESICK KING VISITS FORMER REALM INCOGNITO

By Associated Press
Lisbon—If a story that is being whispered among royalists and scoffed at by republicans is true Dom Manuel of Braganza, ex-king of Portugal, recently broke his exile and paid a clandestine visit to his favorite old country place of Villa Vicosa. Manuel was exiled when the republic was declared in 1910 and forbidden to re-enter the country.

His brief return, however, was not to conspire against the republic, but was impelled by an irresistible homesickness, according to reports, to revisit the scenes of his happy youth in this beautiful palace and park.

While there he is said to have received two personal friends and to have made close inquiries as to the administration of the Braganza estates.

John Stecker, a painter living at 688 Winnebago-st., was arrested on Thursday afternoon by Chief George T. Prim and Officer Albert Deltgen on complaint of the sheriff of Manitowoc-co. Stecker is charged with failure to pay a board bill in Manitowoc. He was turned over to Sheriff Carl Kiel of Manitowoc-co.

collars to set off organdy are denounced as wholly unnecessary fads. The societies urge nation-wide participation in the campaign by clubs and associations and legislation prohibiting the setting of traps except during a short season when fur is at its best.
